Tanker Ravaged By Fire Aground In Burrard Inlet

Brave Captain Guides Ship Away
From Refinery Dock; 4 Injured

IOCO, B.C. (BUP)—The burned-out tanker, Argus, was towed away from the refinery dock in Burrard Inlet today after Capt. William Boyce guided it from the burning vessel.

JULY 1 TO BE 'FULL HOLIDAY' IN PROVINCE

Dominion Day, July 1, will be a "full holiday" for B.C. workers.

Declared a statutory holiday by the federal government, the day also has been named a holiday by the provincial government under the Factories Act and Shops Regulations Act.

This means virtually everybody gets the day off.

Jones Trial Goes to Jury Today

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Trial of 21-year-old negro boxer Sonny Jones in the brutal murder of Mrs. Los Angeles Smith is expected to go to the jury late today with the defense resting on a plea of insanity.

The young fighter, whose real name is Charles Matthews, is alleged to have killed Mrs. Smith, 44, in her home March 4 because she had interfered with his love affair with pretty negress Peggy Bowen.

Mrs. Jocelyn Wallberg, who lived above Mrs. Smith, said she was tied up and raped by Jones the same morning as the slaying.

Three suicide attempts by Jones after his arrest were described by defense witnesses.

One of two psychiatrists, Dr. George A. Davidson of the Vancouver General hospital, said Jones had probably gone through a period of insanity the day of the murder.

Fashionable Ascot Crowd Grooms Queen

WINDSOR, Eng. (AP)—The Queen was a bright and cheerful spot in a dull day at the opening of the Royal Ascot races, socially the smartest of the racing meetings.

The Queen, who rushed from Portsmouth, where she reviewed British and visiting warships Monday, was hailed at the Ascot race course enthusiastically by a large crowd as she drove in state to the royal enclosure.

She and the Duke of Edinburgh rode to their places in an open landau drawn by four spirited grey horses. Bands played and men raised their grey Ascot toppers as the Royal Couple rode about four furlongs along the course to their enclosure.

The sun broke out for a moment on the Queen's arrival. She wore a feathered hat of vivid green and a dress of reseda green. Over it was a coat of steel grey heavy silk.

In the landau with them were the Duke of Gloucester and the Duke of Beaufort. In

The 517-ton tramp tanker owned by the Waterhouse Union Co. blazed throughout the night after it caught fire while being loaded with thousands of gallons of high octane gas and diesel oil about 8.30 p.m.

The fire, set off by a sudden engine room explosion resulting from igniting of leaking fumes, touched off explosions but did not spread to 18,000 gallons of gasoline aboard the vessel.

Four crewmen were injured when hit by searing oil flames. They were rescued by chief engineer Walter Huska of Lulu Island, Vancouver, who later cut the tanker free from the dock with his jackknife.

It was feared the fire would reach fuel loaded aboard the Argus and blow the vessel to bits, probably touching off an uncontrollable blaze at the oil refinery here.

However, Capt. Boyce rode the blazing ship alone to a safe anchorage in shallow waters of the inlet. He then climbed overboard to a tug which had towed the tanker away from the dock where it was menacing the nearby refinery.

The vessel was lying about a quarter of a mile off the dock at 2.15 a.m. when a series of seven explosions shook windows on the shoreline and was heard for miles around. The vessel then began to list astern and apparently grounded.

This morning, the flames had petered out and the Argus was shrouded in cloud and smoke.

Officials said the fire apparently did not reach the gasoline.

The fire boats Sea Chief and Imperial Ioco reached the scene but were forced to back away in face of the thunderous explosions that wrecked the vessel.

a carriage behind the landau were Queen Mother Elizabeth, Princess Margaret, the Duke of Devonshire and the Marquess of Lansdowne. The Queen Mother wore lilac, and Princess Margaret's dress was of coffee colored silk. Two other carriages brought other members of the Royal Family and guests.

Usually Ascot is a fashion parade. It wasn't quite that in today's grey and blustery weather. There were pretty dresses by the tens of thousands, but mostly they were hidden by coats. Outer garments were removed between patters of rain to reveal that predominant colors of the frocks were grey, black and white. There wasn't a trace of the wide-brimmed hats in the sun-bonnet manner which has been a distinguishing feature of summer Ascots of other years.

Punching, owned by James A. de Rothschild, won the Ascot Stakes by six lengths today with Sir Humphrey de Trafford's Papilio second and F. T. Williams' Nick la Rocca third.

Coronation portrait of Queen Elizabeth is superimposed on photographer Cecil Beaton's background depicting St. George's Chapel at Windsor Castle. The Queen wears the imperial crown and the purple robe of state, 22 feet long, which will never be worn again.

Her white gown is embroidered with the emblem of the Commonwealth in gold, silver, pearls and silk. She carries the sceptre in her right hand and orb in left and wears the armlets (gold bracelets), representing sincerity and wisdom.

Christie Trial Starts Monday

LONDON (BUP)—John R. Christie, 59, the accused stranger of Notting Hill, will go on trial next Monday for the murder of his wife and three other women, it was announced today.

Three of his victims were found sealed in a wall of his "murder flat" on a London dead-end street. The fourth was found buried in the back yard beneath a flowering forsythia bush.

Christie will not be tried in the famous No. 1 court at the Central Criminal Court (Old Bailey). The court is being rebuilt and his case will be heard in a smaller one.

Sir Lionel Heald, the attorney-general, will conduct the prosecution. Derek Curtis Bennett, noted criminal lawyer, will defend Christie.

Hearings Resume On Pay Dispute Between IWA-Firms

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Conciliation board resumed hearings here today into the pay dispute between 32,000 coast woodworkers and 158 lumber and logging operators.

The three-man board will hear rebuttal arguments to briefs presented last week by the CIO International Woodworkers of America and Forest Industrial Relations, representing the operators.

The union demanded a 15-cent hourly pay hike but operators insisted on holding the line at last year's wage levels.

B.C. in New Appeal to Ottawa For Aid in Solving Douk Unrest

The provincial government will send a telegram today to the federal government appealing for co-operation in solving the continuing Doukhobor unrest in the Kootenay country.

Just before entering a cabinet meeting this morning, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said the telegram was being prepared by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Bonner expected to be able to release contents of the wire this afternoon. He declined to state the general outline of the appeal.

Mr. Bonner's earlier attempt to have a meeting with federal officials in Victoria to discuss a solution was unsuccessful. Federal Justice Minister Garson vetoed the proposal when he said the provincial government must first give him concrete proposals.

"Until they accept certain ideas and principles, they can't expect concrete proposals," Mr. Bonner said. "A complete solution lies beyond provincial jurisdiction."

A non-Doukhobor citizens committee at Appledale, B.C. was "out" and charging one of their sect with a crime would be a grave sin.

"Catching the people and putting them in jail is not the problem," they claimed. They offered their co-operation in expediting relocation plans.

After spending nearly an hour with the Doukhobors, the citizens said "we don't see where we can work together."

The eight executive members of the committee then met with representatives of the reformed Sons of Freedom group, headed by Anton Kalesnikoff and John J. Perepelkin, who offered their help to the group.

The citizens asked that they come forward with information leading to a conviction but the "Sons" replied they knew nothing. They told the citizens that "detective" work among them

Full Truce Meeting Called

Red Bombers Start Seoul Fires: Troops Press On

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The full United Nations and Communist truce delegations will meet Wednesday after a 17-day recess, the UN command announced tonight.

The UN command asked for the meeting, the announcement said. No details were given except that it will be an executive meeting.

There was no indication whether the meeting promised a further step toward the signing of an armistice or whether some complication had arisen.

(In Washington, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had warned Monday that the present Communist offensive on the battlefield could seriously delay an armistice.)

SEOUL (AP)—Fifteen Communist planes bombed Kimpo airfield and Seoul's port of Incheon tonight touching off huge fires visible for 40 miles.

While anti-aircraft fire roared and crackled across the sky, the low-flying planes methodically dropped their bombs.

One bomb found its mark on the petroleum, oil and lubrication dump in the Incheon vicinity. Leaping flames from the fire lighted Seoul, 20 miles to the east. An Allied officer said the fire "will burn for a couple of days."

The air force said it was believed the attacking planes were Russian-built PO-2 light biplanes. This is the type of plane which has been making frequent harassing raids by night.

It was the fifth raid or pass at the Seoul area by the Red air force in the last nine days.

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Chinese Communists, treading over the bodies of their own men, wrested Finger Ridge from South Korean troops today in the newest Red victory in the "Battle of the Bulge."

Test Match Tied

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—The first test match between England and Australia ended in a draw here today.

Final score of the first test match was Australia 249 and 123, England 144 and 120 for one. Match drawn.

Everest Not Measured

KATMANDU, Nepal (UP)—Col. John Hunt, leader of the British expedition which conquered Mount Everest, said today he made no accurate measures to check the precise height of the world's tallest peak.

The height of Mount Everest is usually given as 29,002 feet.

Rosenbergs Petition

OSKINSING, N.Y. (AP)—Condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg today signed a petition to President Eisenhower asking, for a second time, for executive clemency. They are scheduled to be electrocuted Thursday night.

Wants No A-Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator William Langer (Rep.-N.D.) Monday introduced a resolution to prohibit the detonation of atomic bombs or other nuclear devices or weapons within the United States. He gave no specific reason.

The Communists threw 6,000 men into the fighting after soldiers of the Eighth-Rok division hurled back an attack by 1,500 Reds on outposts guarding Finger Ridge.

United Press correspondent Frederick C. Panton reported from the front that the victory is believed to have cost the Reds "tremendous casualties."

Panton said the Reds regrouped after the initial throw-back and then lunged forward in an attempt to take over a vital "pivot" point on the edge of the two-mile sag into Rok territory known as the "Bulge."

Other Red troops stabbed at Rok defenses at the critical hinge on the western end of the Bulge and a short distance to the east. On the inside of the two-mile-deep pocket one group of counter-attacking Rok's gained 200 to 300 yards.

Estimated enemy casualties for the week ended Sunday amounted to 9,200, of whom 5,700 were killed and 3,500 wounded. This total does not include complete figures for the heavy offensive which started Sunday night.

North Vancouver Liberal Candidate Demands Recount

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Confusion in the first count of votes in North Vancouver in the June 9 election today brought a demand from Liberal candidate W. McDougall for a recount.

He said he would ask for the recount because "fresh figures for the final count of 124 polls gave 1860 fewer than previously reported for only 117 polls."

Latest return gave McDougall 6,241 votes to 7,532 for Social Credit George Tomlinson.

Ontario Uranium Find Starts Staking Rush

SAULTE STE. MARIE, Ont. (BUP)—Reports of a "sensational" uranium discovery 100 miles east of here touched off one of Ontario's biggest staking scrambles today.

The rush followed reports that the Peace Uranium Co. had obtained "sensational" results from diamond drilling in Long township, centre of a thriving tourist industry off the north shore of Lake Huron.

The company refused to comment, but was expected to issue a full statement on the discovery next week.

The mining recorder's office here was swamped by miners and prospectors rushing to record more than 100 claims. Other prospectors lined up for maps and mining licenses before heading to the area.

It was the third uranium rush in Eastern Canada in recent months. Old-time prospectors and mine company crews have been staking heavily in Quebec's Maniwaki district, where uranium finds were reported in four townships about 100 miles north of Ottawa. Earlier, prospectors and citizens in North Bay, Ont., turned the city upside down staking claims after reports of nearby uranium discoveries.

Russian 'Mystery' Ship at Review

When the Russian cruiser Sverdlov arrived at Spithead, off Portsmouth, for Monday's Coronation review, spectators gaped when the crew lowered a carpeted gangway right down to the water's edge. It was bright red with a thin blue border and pile that was an inch deep. That carpet was something that no Royal Navy man had ever seen before. (London Daily Mirror Photo.)

Russian Sailors Cheer Queen at Naval Show

PORTSMOUTH (CP) — In every conversation in this historic anchorage the talk eventually swings around to the Russian cruiser Sverdlov.

During the Queen's review Monday no one was quite sure whether the Russians would be impressed by the British fleet or whether they would be impressed by the British fleet.

But a Western naval officer said "It isn't likely that the Russians would send into a foreign port a ship full of top secret gadgets, if they have them."

He added: "More interesting than secrets is evidence of competent seamanship by the Russian crew. There are good sailors aboard the cruiser. This discipline and training, plus the rugged features of the ship, might make a strategist move toward a conclusion that the Russian navy is fitting itself to operate at longer ranges and farther from base than it has been heretofore."

Capt. O. L. Rudakov refused a pilot when he brought the Sverdlov in here a few days ago and issued all his orders by

Ex-Victorian Wins Korean Battle Honor

Former Victorian Sgt. Thomas Raymond Scouler has received a mention-in-dispatches award for outstanding gallantry with the Canadians on the Korean front.

The award was mentioned in the Queen's Coronation List. Although severely wounded in the chest and lungs, Sgt. Scouler proved himself a fine leader of men when his patrol was ambushed by the Chinese, the citation said.

He called up the platoon mortars to hammer the enemy, forced his way along a narrow communicating trench to get within hand grenade range. After hurling his own supply at the enemy he had fellow soldiers hand him more and threw them at the attackers.

The attack was beaten off. Sgt. Scouler walked back to the medical men and allowed himself to be taken away on a stretcher.

Now recovered and instructing in parachute jumping at Rivers Camp, Man., Sgt. Scouler married the youngest

Crossing the Divide

NO MATTER HOW SHARPLY eras may be delineated in the history books, the fact remains that a country may often pass from one to another without public notice being taken of the great movement under way.

This observation may well be true in the case of the United States, which, according to the recent Paley Report, "has crossed the great industrial divide and from being a nation with a surplus of raw materials has become a deficit nation."

That is to say, where the United States once had more raw materials of every kind than it could use, and sent them out to less well-endowed countries, it now must import raw materials from abroad to keep its industrial wheels turning.

The change-over is not due, at this stage, to a decrease in raw material production but to an immense increase in the production of manufactured goods, which require ever greater amounts of basic ingredients. Metals, pulp, oil, provide cases in point.

The effects of the United States' crossing of the divide must be far-reaching. One initial result is to set the tariff policy. The United States must import more at a time when its intention appears to be to keep import tariffs high and leave intact other impediments to trade which have reacted to the disadvantage of foreign countries and can only react ultimately to the disadvantage of the United States itself.

Another effect is to explain at least in part why the United States has become Canada's largest customer. As a source of the raw materials the United States needs, Canada is admirably placed—both geographically and economically. Our pulp derivatives, newsprint, copper, nickel and other products have been shipped southward in annually increasing amounts. Our trade totals have soared to imposing proportions despite tariffs.

That trade, as Mr. C. D. Howe, Canada's minister of trade and commerce, pointed out to a London audience recently, could become still larger, as could that of other nations, if the United States would relax its restrictions and encourage a freer interchange of goods.

Despite the rather unfavorable outlook at the present moment, Mr. Howe sees possibilities that this might happen. "I do not know," he said, "but what I do know is that it cannot be taken for granted that the protectionists will prevail."

"Trade, not aid," he added, "has many friends in the United States. Those who believe in it are working hard, and on the whole, it seems to me, with some success."

Those words offer encouragement to a Britain seeking to balance a hard-pressed sterling economy, a France looking for markets rather than loans, a Canada wanting outlets for scores of products it cannot ship to other countries still unable to buy, and to a world that desires nothing more than to buy American goods and so increase its standard of living, but which at the same time must pay for such purchases with its own output.

That is why we may well agree with Mr. Howe that "the actions which (the United States) takes with respect to imports have an effect which cannot be measured merely by the particular items affected." To a considerable extent they can be measured, indeed, in the prosperity or depression of the free world.

Helping Students to Their Goals

PRIOR TO THE SHOWING OF the magnificent coronation film, "A Queen is Crowned," hundreds of citizens attending the premiere Thursday evening were introduced to winners of five IODE bursaries.

During the presentation, municipal inspector J. F. K. English, drew attention to the fact that in addition to this year's five special awards, the order also provides two scholarships at Victoria College and from seven to nine other bursaries to different high schools in this region.

The remarks serve to focus attention on the generosity of firms, clubs, organizations and individuals in this community toward young people seeking higher education.

In addition to the IODE awards, 15 other scholarships, bursaries or money prizes are given in the high schools.

At Victoria College scholastic rewards have reached a total of $3,800 and include 35 scholarships from firms, service clubs, veterans' associations, women's clubs, individuals and memorial funds.

This open-handedness, becoming more noticeable every year, illustrates a wholesome appreciation by the community for the educational opportunities furnished here in higher grades, and reflects a public willingness to assist worthy students. Those sentiments are advanced still further by the Dominion-Provincial bursary loan fund, from which qualifying students may borrow sums up to $300 to assist them in college and university work. Under the scheme, those benefiting need repay only 40 per cent of their loans when they find employment.

The spirit of this bursary sponsorship is essentially altruistic. There are, however, important material benefits accruing from the assistance furnished to students. Beyond helping the young person concerned, it encourages his attainment of greater competence and makes the student a more valuable factor in the profession, trade or industry to which he eventually turns. And since it increases his intellectual capacities, it can reasonably be expected to improve his worth as a citizen.

The original merit of such scholarships is centred in an individual, the student. The ultimate worth is extended to the community and society.

'Don't Join the Book-Burners'

HAVING PLACED HIMSELF ON record in opposition to Sen. Taft's attitude toward the United States' allies, President Eisenhower has made it abundantly clear that he disagrees with the stand of Sen. Joe McCarthy toward books.

His address to the graduating class at Dartmouth College does the President credit and reassures his friends outside his own country.

"Don't join the book-burners," Mr. Eisenhower has advised the graduates. And from that counsel it may be assumed that he is rejecting the theories of proscription against certain volumes in American libraries overseas.

In addition to championing the individual's right to his own ideas, his right to express them, record them and make them available to others, he has called for a study of opinions differing from orthodox democratic thought.

"How," he asks, "will we defeat Communism, unless we know what it is, and why it has such an appeal for men?" His argument presents an intelligent and democratic approach to the war of ideas—a war which should take into consideration the strength of the enemy's weapons to ensure production of better armaments against them.

If there have been misgivings over President Eisenhower's inclination to suffer McCarthy as a political expedient, the Dartmouth speech should indicate a refusal to accept McCarthyism.

A Spurt at the Tape

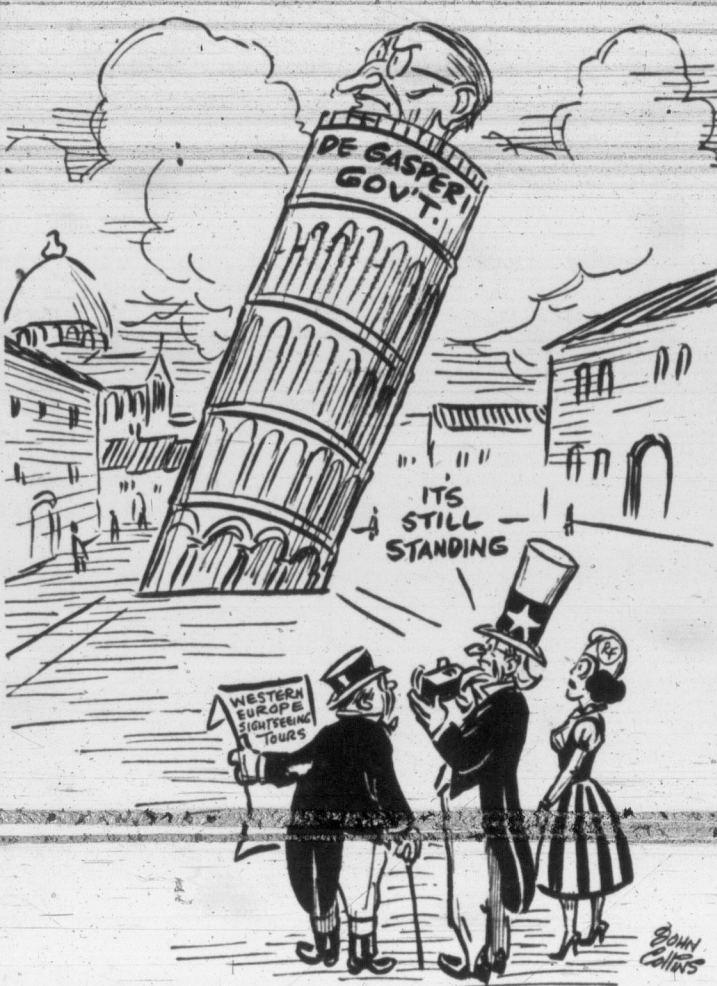

THE CURRENT COMMUNIST Chinese drive in Korea, the greatest in two years, no doubt is being staged for propaganda effect. Almost on the eve of a truce in the three-year-old war, the Communists have burst into action, apparently in an effort to establish the claim—for home consumption—that the United Nations forces were being driven back when the truce saved them.

Another incentive, of course, is that the truce will freeze the battle lines in their positions at the time the cease-fire is declared. At present the lines are well north of the 38th parallel, so that on a territorial basis the three years of war will have resulted, for the Communists, only in the loss of several miles of ground.

The Reds' propaganda element is also one explanation for the gigantic air effort the U.N. is making to stem the attack. Within eight hours yesterday bomb cargoes totaled two and a quarter million pounds. This is saturation bombing on a scale not often reached in World War II. There will be no "Chinese robbed of victory by truce" headlines in Communist countries if the allied defense is given full scope.

Leaning Tower

Learning the Hard Way

New York Times

EVERY now and then a major official in a Communist-ruled country becomes tired of the pretense that his land is governed by and for the working class, and tells his people some harsh truths.

The latest figure to have suffered such attacks of candor is the Vice-Premier of Czechoslovakia, Zdenek Nejedlik, who has confessed that the recent monetary reform there "met with open resistance and condemnation," though he hastened to add that "the nation is beginning to understand" the reform's contribution to "a good future."

Why the robbery of Czechoslovak people of their savings should make for a good future he did not explain.

OWN FAULT
Even more interesting is Mr. Zdenek's attitude toward workers' losses from this reform, for he said that "if workers have incidentally lost their savings, it is their own fault."

Here is Communist solicitude for workers indeed! But Mr. Zdenek reached the height of candor when he explained that the hardships inflicted by the monetary reform were needed to make workers work harder and more faithfully.

How could we combat absenteeism in the factories, he asked, "when workers earned so much that they did not bother to work but stayed at home several days each month?" Mr. Zdenek is apparently implying that now that Czechoslovakia's workers have suffered a fine Communist pay cut they will come to work faithfully.

CAN DO NOTHING
The tragedy of all this, of course, is that the workers of Czechoslovakia, to whom this candor is directed, can do nothing about their subjection, while in countries still free some workers are seduced by Communist propaganda which paints lands like Czechoslovakia as proletarian Utopias.

If Czechoslovakia's working class had ever known the fate of Russia's workers they would never have supported Gorbachev and Slansky in February, 1948, but today is too late. One can only hope that the candor of Czechoslovakia's Communists today will be made known to workers elsewhere, so that the latter need not at some future date carry on their own backs the burdens of the working class under Communist slavery today.

Bureaucracy in Education?

Each year we are spending $500,000,000; we have another $500,000,000 invested in school land, buildings and furnishings. All of us are directly concerned as taxpayers, present and future, most of us also as parents.

We need urgently another 10,000 teachers. By 1955 the shortage may reach 25,000. Even these grim figures don't tell the whole story. Of our 90,000 teachers, there are 50,000 whose education has not gone beyond grade 11.

We're desperately short of classrooms—this despite an unprecedented $141,000,000 school-building program during 1951.

The schools are sorely plagued by financial worries. In Toronto the cost of educating a grade-one pupil has jumped from $101 to $226 in the past ten years; in Edmonton the per-pupil cost has risen from $23.30 to $194.01. Communities like Saskatoon are now spending 61 per cent of their local revenue for education. In 1951 Alberta spent thirty-two dollars per capita on education and British Columbia $30.

These extracts from a survey of education in Canada by Maclean's Magazine indicate clearly that there is something radically wrong with our present educational set-up.

Outside of the general trend towards state control which seems to have beguiled our populace into the delusion that they can be nursed from the cradle to the grave by the state, while prating of free enterprise and democracy, there is another reason for the mess which our schools are in.

This point might be brought to our attention by a quotation from a western Canadian university professor with a wide experience in his line, who says in a personal letter:

"The thing about all this education business that surprises me a little is that none of the 'critics' seems to have caught on to the main primary motive—the school administrators want as many people as possible in as big schools as possible, because it gives them (the administrators—and every teacher has hopes of being an administrator some day) more power. This is normal, of course, and in any other branch of government people recognize it and keep it down. But the educational authorities go around saying 'It's all for the de-ear children's sake; you mustn't question our motives.' The curious thing is that nobody does."

Further about the bureaucratic control now enjoyed by the school authorities in Canada, the writer comments: "The schools won't guard against it. The taxpayers will have to."

'The Thunderer' Takes Stock

(A down-to-earth post-coronation view of Britain is given in the following excerpt from The Times (London), which comes appropriately with today's special Coronation supplement.)

TUESDAY'S ceremonies and pageantry were both the inward and the outward expressions of the greatest coming together of free peoples freely associated that the world has ever seen.

Those peoples are still newly come through stress and storm. They had earned a holiday. The day was rightly the climax of a mounting scale of rejoicing. Metaphorically as well as literally the British family of nations had built a grandstand—to look at its history and to take pride and find hope in what it saw.

But all holidays must come to an end. The stands have to be dismantled, the decorations removed, and the plain world be bared once more.

LONG ENOUGH

It is not a moment too soon. The British people have had a holiday from reality long enough. After so great an ordeal as the recent 30 years' war, with its tragic outpouring of the life of two generations and the dissipation of a century's work, thrift, and investment, the world, for whose freedom they made these sacrifices, owed them a little borrowed time, and perhaps even some given money.

But the essence of a moratorium is that it is not infinite. The time has come for Britain to find anew her place in the world, earning it not merely by her past example but by her present exertions.

Pitt did not casually link the two. History will never accept for any length of time either of these things alone as full work.

The prospect, viewed sensibly, is an exhilarating one. People are dimly glimpsing it when they speak as they have done so often—of a new Elizabethan age.

But great as the power of the words is—and nowhere greater than with the British people, whose genius it is to fuse lyricism and action—words can of themselves accomplish nothing.

UNITED NATION

Sir Winston Churchill's speeches in 1940, immortal as they were, could not achieve victory without the blood, sweat and tears of a united nation. Today, perhaps because of the exhaustion and tiredness, and the barrenness of the victory so far, there is a subconscious hope that, somehow, words may prove to be enough.

In the same way some feel that to give the world the benefit of our centuries-matured political wisdom—drawing on our capital without further call on our effort—or to be a bridge between east and west—an offer to supply something static, with no need for any dynamic action—should be enough.

The belief that somewhere there is a formula that of itself will cure the country's ill dies hard. "A new Elizabethan age" is in danger of becoming an incantation, a magician's hey presto! as if the nation's new stature could be established merely by proclaiming it. The words are not more than a challenge. Only years of effort can turn them into a description.

'PENNY PLAIN'

Even in a welfare state facts must be seen penny plain. Britain's economy still sways on a knife-edge. Things are better; they are a long way short of being safe against becoming worse than we have yet known them. The nation has made great strides. It is living well, eating well, is better housed, more widely educated, has more leisure than ever before.

Its standard of living may still be below that of the United States—although if the condition of the broad base of the social pyramid is a true indication of national well-being this is doubtful—but it is well above that of any other country with equal population.

JUSTIFIABLY PROUD

The British people are justifiably proud of these things. They have sprung from a humane desire to abolish want. They are the fruits of something like a crusade; and it is not in the nature of crusades to count the cost. But when the cost has included, and is still including, a mortgaging of the future, when today's well-being is being nourished from the resources needed to stave off impoverishment tomorrow, then, however fine the acquisition, it can have been bought at too great a price—or have been paid for in the wrong currency.

The main reason why Britain has not yet prospered sufficiently to lift herself above the safety line is that the British people as a whole have not yet had the will to prosper. Present ease is being subsidized by future penury.

Yet such is the mind of the nation and the state of politics that neither government nor opposition dare allow themselves to be disclosed fully facing the facts. A country made great by resourcefulness and energy is in many places slowly strangling itself with restrictive practices, by a placing of convenience and comfort before efficiency and productivity, by a plain disinclination for hard work.

A people whose prudence and thrift, harnessed imaginatively to a spirit of adventure, built up a vast overseas investment is now content to live hand-to-mouth, refusing the irksomeness of saving to replace the industrial equipment—the ships, the factories, the machines—on which its life depends.

Great industries have become the playthings of politics. Nationalization, denationalization, renationalization (perhaps redenationalization) bedevil an industrial community that ought to have its whole energies concentrated on the task of running itself competitively in a fiercely competitive world.

Expediency is often raised above principle. Amidst the incessant and strident talk of rights the voice of duty is only half-heard. Meanness of spirit, envy, and jealousy sour too much of our national life. In spite of much magnificent service, selflessly given, there is other work where obligingness is at a discount, and the task of earning a livelihood seems a barely tolerable imposition.

'COULDN'T CARE LESS'

Many people are earnest and anxious; but there still lingers the cynicism of a decade that declared it couldn't care less.

It is shocking to look behind the decorations at such a time as this, then the shock is a healthy one. For such blights shock because they are so alien to the British character. Their growth is due to many causes; some perhaps inevitable, all capable of being transitory. They are not inherent in our stock.

The British are a good people grown careless. If these things are depicted clearly they expose ideas so naturally repugnant that there is a general desire to make an end of them.

The power is there, given the will. That the passage will be arduous is not a deterrent but a promise. "Change is not made without inconvenience," said Hooker, "even from worse to better."

As Our Readers See It

IN TIME OF NEED

We wish to thank all the people who rendered assistance to our son at the scene of the accident on East Saanich Road on the afternoon of Monday, June 8. We deeply appreciated all their help.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE ROSS.

NOT FEDERALLY

I hate to throw cold water on the Secord's joy, but I and many of my friends voted for them as a protest vote against the way Liberals and Conservatives had behaved when in power.

We certainly would not vote Social Credit in a federal election.

SUBSCRIBER.

COMPARATIVE WAGES

The Victoria Building Trades Council was surprised and shocked to learn of the substantial wages paid by the Saanich Municipal Council to its employees. It would be difficult to believe that such wages were being paid were it not for the information given in an advertisement over the signature of the council.

As examples, the local going wage by agreement with local contractors for carpenters is $2.10 per hour, crane truck operators $2.00 per hour, bulldozer operators $2.20 per hour, cement finishers $1.95 per hour and laborers $1.55 per hour.

That the employees have gone on strike for a wage that will enable them to live decently and bring up their children is perfectly understandable. We hope the council will see the value of satisfied employees and not expect them to subsidize the municipality by working for subnormal wages.

GOT THE WRONG K

Last week I mentioned buying peanuts to aid the Kinsmen. As anyone who knows my absence of mind could swiftly have guessed, I meant the Kiwanis. (It didn't happen in Victoria at all, either. I bought those peanuts on the Mainland—bags and bags of them.) If the Kinsmen objected to my joking, I apologize. And if the Kiwanis objected to not getting credit for their many good works, I apologize again. They both do good works. About the only person around here who doesn't do good works is myself. Or rather, if I may so kick the old language around, I do good works but I don't work good.

Hilaire Belloc was frequently saying the opposite of what he meant, and was almost angry when people kept calling this a fault. He said anyone could say East when he meant West, and so on. It is lucky he wasn't like that while navigating his famous little ship, the Nona.

DAVE BROCK.

DON'T COUNT CHICKENS... Victory celebration at this time may be quite premature for the Bennett Social Conservative party. It isn't re-elected in this province as yet. Not by a long shot.

A whole lot depends on whether other people followed the hints of their party leaders in making their second choices. In most of the riding second and likely third counts will be required before final election can be determined.

If CCF alternatives go predominantly to the Liberals this time, and vice-versa, as will most likely be the case, then the Social Conservatives will certainly not come out with a majority. It may, however, be the largest minority faction, which in itself is not something to crow too loudly about.

That minority faction may well be split over the, as yet, unsettled question of just how far the Bennett group may see fit to go in proclaiming belief in, or, on the other hand, disclaiming belief in the Major Douglas funny money theory.

NEARER THE HEART

SHIP after ship, crammed with soldiers, moved slowly out of harbor, in the lovely day, and felt again the heave of the sea.

As they passed from moorings to the man-of-war anchorage on their way to the sea, their feeling that they had done with life and were going out to something new, welled up in those battalions; they cheered till the harbor rang with cheering.

They left the harbor very, very slowly; this turning of cheering lasted a long time; no one who heard it will ever forget it, or think of it unshaken. It broke the hearts of all there with pity and pride; it went beyond the guard of the English heart. Presently all were out, and the fleet stood across for Tenedos, and the sun went down with marvelous color, lighting island after island and the Asian peaks, and those left behind in Mudros trimmed their lamps knowing that they had been for a little brought near to the heart of things.

—John Macfield, in "Gallipoli."

Practical Politics

A Neapolitan shipowner named Achille Lauro has just given the world an impressive demonstration of practical politics.

He did it with neon signs, free spaghetti parties and a demand for the restoration of the Italian monarchy.

He didn't win, but he accomplished what he set out to do. He prevented Premier Alcide de Gasperi's centre coalition from winning, and now looks upon himself as a "third force" in Italian politics which will not necessarily oppose the de Gasperi government but rather will act as a "control."

De Gasperi's coalition parties failed by only 57,000 votes to win the 50.01 per cent of the total needed in last week's Italian general elections to take absolute control of the chamber of deputies. As it is, their majority was shaved by 16 seats.

Lauro's Monarchists polled nearly 2,000,000 votes and won 40 seats in the chamber, giving them the balance of power.

The disappointed de Gasperi referred bitterly to the Monarchists as "deviationists" and said they had befriended the Communists.

Lauro's future ambitions are more suspected than proven.

He entered politics actively only about three years ago—some said because he was tired of just making money.

His first job was to get himself elected mayor of Naples. His methods were reminiscent of those used by a famous mayor in the United States nearly 40 years ago—big Bill Thompson of Chicago.

Lauro, by demanding the return of King Umberto, also picked himself a good safe issue. Then he helped himself along with a liberal scattering of 1,000 lire notes (about $1.50), free spaghetti, fireworks, canned tomatoes and redemption of pawn tickets worth up to eight dollars.

He also promised Neapolitans a championship soccer team, jobs and subsidies for everyone and a rebuilt Naples that would become the "Pearl of the Mediterranean."

That was enough for the Neapolitans. They elected him, too.

Lauro has made two huge fortunes and lost one of them.

He joined the Fascist Party in 1933, 11 years after Mussolini came to power, and under Mussolini's patronage acquired a large merchant fleet that carried troops during the Ethiopian War. Hence his first fortune.

The Allies jailed him for a while in 1943 because of his Fascist connections.

After his release he began rebuilding his fleet with the aid of private British and American loans and government subsidies, and now it is at pre-war level of 57 ships.

The safest thing to say about Lauro at the moment seems to be that he is anti-Communist; politically he is close to the Fascists in that he represents the extreme right and has been eagerly careful up to this point about saying how far he will go in supporting de Gasperi's pro-western foreign policy.

Burning of the Books

THE burning of books is now progressing merrily in all American diplomatic missions abroad, for all the world to see. The State Department's book-burning program, undertaken in craven fear of Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, even has certain amusing aspects—if one disregards the fact that it is making the United States an object of derision all over the world. Consider, for example, the books banned from the United States Information Service's libraries in two sensitive Far Eastern posts, Calcutta and Bombay.

Stewart

The Bombay list of books consigned to the flames is headed by "Washington Witch-hunt," by Bert Andrews, the able Chief Washington correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune. Andrews is a bitterly anti-Communist and distinctly conservative man. But what makes the banning of his book particularly piquant is the fact that Andrews was in very large part responsible for bringing to light the facts which led to the conviction of Alger Hiss.

Andrews worked closely with Richard Nixon, now vice-president, throughout the Hiss case—and although he had nothing to do with it, McCarthy's rise may be traced to the conviction of Hiss. Yet Andrews' book is banned for "bias" and it cannot be denied that the book does reveal a certain heretical bias against the persecution of innocent people.

Some books on the Calcutta or Bombay Index expurgatorius—like "Mission to Moscow," by former Ambassador Joseph E. Davies, "Union Now," by Clarence Streit, or "The Stilwell Papers," by the late Gen. Joseph Stilwell—might properly be criticized for fatuity or tediousness. But it is difficult to see how they might sully the minds of the English-speaking residents of Calcutta or Bombay.

Other purged books include the admirable "The Loyalty of Free Men," by Alan Barth, an able editor of The Washington Post; the Lynds' classic "Middletown" and "Middletown in Transition," and "Rising Wind," by Walter White, the strongly anti-Communist

President of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Presumably recognition of the existence of a race problem in the United States is evidence of the harboring of dangerous thoughts.

At least two American diplomats have had the courage to protest this vicious nonsense. One is James B. Conant, former president of Harvard and now American High Commissioner in Western Germany. When Conant received the original idiotic State Department directive banning the use of material by "controversial figures, Communists, fellow travelers, etcetera," he cabled a brief but appropriate request to the State Department. Please define etcetera, Conant's cable read in paraphrase.

A longer and more passionate protest was cabled to the State Department by Ellis O. Briggs, formerly Ambassador to Czechoslovakia and now Ambassador to South Korea. Those in the State Department who have read Briggs' cable describe it as a classic of its kind, eloquent and genuinely moving, a personal reaffirmation of faith in the American tradition of free thought and free inquiry.

Briggs recalled his own first-hand knowledge of the slave state, and warned that the State Department's book-burning was an outright betrayal of everything for which America stands.

The Briggs cable will no doubt henceforth gather dust in the State Department's classified files. But surely it is time for other Americans, who also cherish the American traditions and who can speak more freely, to get at least a little angry, and to make their voices heard.

For the standard of judgment employed by the State Department's book-burners is clear. No publication containing views or facts which might conceivably irritate Senator McCarthy or his admirers is to be permitted abroad under any circumstances. A little more of this cowardly knuckling under to the political yahoos, and the same standard will no doubt one day be applied in the United States as well.

More 3-D Gimmicks Coming

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Should three-dimensional give up its gimmicks? Not on your life, says pioneer 3-D producer Bryan Foy. Most film critics have complained about the tricks of having objects appear to come out into the audience in three-dimensional pictures. Many film makers have argued that such novelties will be discarded in future depictions.

But not Foy, the man who made millions for Warner Brothers with "House of Wax." That film had such items as rubber balls, can-can girls' legs and guillotined heads projecting into the theatres. Now he's dreaming up even more fantastic ideas for his new picture, "The Mad Magician."

"The audience is entitled to have some fun, too," he commented. "The ticket buyers like those gimmicks, so why deprive them? Who cares what the critics say?"

"Of course, you have to know how and when to use them. For instance, we found that it's no good if you just throw something out into the audience. It happens so fast that there's no kick in it. You have to repeat the action—like that bouncing ball on the paddle."

Foy is conceiving a wealth of new stunts for his new epic. You can get ready to start dodging yo-yos, because he has found the champion yo-yo man. The champion will be spinning two of the things at you in the picture.

Horror will be the keynote. One graphic shot in the film will show the magician's illusion of severing a girl's head with a buzz saw. But don't go away. The climax of the show will be the interior of a crematorium. I predict it will either be a sensation or else send the patrons screaming out of the theatre.

Some producers think 3-D is a passing fancy. Foy says it's here to stay. "There's plenty of room for all kinds of new mediums," he remarked. "I think 3-D will remain good for horror pictures, which is a kind of entertainment the public has always liked. They enjoy being shocked."

"But these pictures have to be done with sincerity. No matter how fantastic the plot, you have to believe in it. The main trouble is finding directors who don't look down their noses at this kind of picture."

Foy is a chunky, fast-talking man who is everybody's idea of a Hollywood producer. He's only natural that he lives show business. He started in vaudeville as one of the seven little Foy's with his father, Eddie Foy Sr.

Hospital Experts Against Sweepstakes to Raise Funds

SASKATOON (CP)—Hospital administrators do not favor sweepstakes as a means of raising funds to operate the institutions.

The general opinion of a panel of administrators here Monday was that if sweepstakes were legalized, the draws would be operated on behalf of every charity in the country and the money raised for hospitals would be small.

The panel of experts discussing this question at the Western Canada Institute for Hospital Administrators and Trustees included Harvey E. Taylor, superintendent of the West Coast General Hospital, Port Alberni, B.C.; Percy Ward of Vancouver, secretary of the British Columbia Hospital Association; H. H. Bassett, administrator of Victoria Municipal Hospital; Prince Albert, C. E. Barton, assistant superintendent of Regina General Hospital; and Dr. L. O. Bradley, administrator of Calgary General Hospital.

The panel agreed hospital visiting should be under strict control and that the welfare of the patient should be the first consideration in determining the

SHOULD BE LICENSED REGINA (CP)—Public accountants should be licensed as public practitioners but should not be granted a lesser degree than that of chartered accountants, H. A. Hunt, president of the Saskatchewan Institute of Chartered Accountants, told the royal commission on public accountancy here Monday.

Mr. Hunt said the public would be confused by more than one set of initials designating qualified public accountants, even if the standards were equal, but licensing of public accountants would give them recognition as qualified accountants.

Mr. Hunt was questioned by Dr. M. C. Shumilacher, counsel for the certified public accountants, who seek the commission's approval for a bill to incorporate their organization.

CROP REPORT LETHBRIDGE (CP)—The Lethbridge Herald says in its second monthly crop report Monday the general southern Alberta picture is favorable despite violent weather changes. Heavy June rainfall has varied from four to seven inches excellent. The season is 10 days to two weeks late and spring wheat averages only about three inches in height but the stand is good.

All indications point to a large winter wheat and fall rye crop. Some winter wheat is coming into head and the rest is in shot blade, as is the case with rye. Some stands of rye measure 42 inches in height.

EDMONTON (CP)—Two persons charged with separate week-end stabbings were remanded without plea in court Monday when they appeared on charges of intentional wounding.

Mrs. Katie Hogue, alleged to have wounded Albert C. Ragan in the leg with a bayonet, was remanded to Wednesday. Ragan's wound required 15 stitches.

William Devine was remanded to Monday. Police charge Merle West required 12 stitches to close a slashed knee after Devine attacked her with a butcher knife.

COURTENAY—Residents have contributed $3,000 toward the $40,000 required for a senior citizens' home with no canvass or payroll deduction plan yet begun.

Work parties under the direction of Dave Reynolds have made a road to the homesite, and have started construction of a foundation. Volunteers will be asked to give their time week-ends to help reduce the cash outlay for the home.

DUNCAN—District 65 School Board has appointed trustees G. E. Bonner, Grant Loveston and George Popplestone to interview the department of education regarding its lack of money for extraordinary expenditures on necessary school improvements.

A solution may be a by-law to the people, a move recommended by the Duncan city council when it rejected the trustees' recent request for approval of extraordinary funds.

SIDNEY—Residents adjacent to the garbage dump here have complained to the village commission that an alternative site should be found, but no suitable land has yet been located. The commission hopes to use the cut and fill method, by which a hole is dug, filled with garbage, then covered. To date there have been objections to each site contemplated.

BABY ARRIVES MONTH EARLY ON CARRIER DURING REVIEW

PORTSMOUTH (CP)—A baby girl was born Monday to one of the guests aboard a British aircraft carrier right in the middle of the big Coronation naval review.

Just after the Queen had passed in her royal yacht the 36,800-ton aircraft carrier Eagle's loudspeakers sent out an urgent call for the principal medical officer, while perplexed ship's officers signalled ashore for a hospital launch.

The surgeon hurried to one of the spaces aboard where guests were accommodated and found that Mrs. Joy McCracken, a boatswain's wife, was about to give birth to a child one month prematurely.

Mrs. McCracken's little daughter was safely delivered in the Eagle's sickbay. Mother and daughter, both doing well, were landed by launch and taken to hospital later.

Canadian Doctors Fear State Medicine

WINNIPEG, Man. (BUP)—The 10,000 doctors presented in the Canadian Medical Association fear the $35,000,000 granted annually by the federal health department could be the first step toward state medicine, and they have warned against such a possibility.

Dr. Norman H. Gosse of Halifax, chairman of the association's executive council, disclosed the CMA stand to reporters following intensive study of the entire health grants program on the convention floor.

He said the doctors supported the principle of the grants "provided they are administered with CMA policy." This meant the principle of "fees-for-services" in Canadian medicine should not be disturbed.

"We don't want the government to pay for medical services except in those places where there are no adequate health facilities available," he said.

Saanich Expedition For Cascara Bark Banned by Council

An expedition to remove cascara bark from the Saanich Lake district, was turned down by Saanich council Monday.

Mr. Roy Wootton suggested that the cascara trees be included in a municipal by-law covering the protection of trees in Saanich. This will be discussed at a future meeting.

CHICKENHOUSES OUT OF BOUNDS AT ROYAL OAK

Although he lives in a rural area six miles from the city centre, G. L. Chatterton, regional supervisor of the Department of Veterans' Affairs office in Victoria, was informed by Saanich Council Monday that he can't build a chickenhouse on his Normandy Road acreage, near Royal Oak.

Reeve Joseph Casey said Mr. Chatterton's property was too near the Patricia Bay Highway and is also in a residential area.

"It seems funny telling a fellow he can't raise chickens in the country," commented Mr. Roy H. Wootton.

Delicious Strawberry Jam

in 15 minutes

from the time your fruit is prepared

WITH CERTO

- Mrs. A. makes jam the short-boil way with CERTO. She has 2 pounds of fruit prepared ready to start at 9 o'clock.
- The dotted line shows level of the prepared fruit in Mrs. A's saucepan.
- Mrs. A. adds 3 pounds of sugar. A pound of jam made with CERTO contains no more sugar than a pound made the old long-boil way, but she knows the CERTO recipe will give her 50% more jam.
- Mrs. A. brings the mixture to a full rolling boil; boils hard ONE MINUTE only; removes from stove and adds ½ bottle (4 ozs.) Certo. CERTO is the natural jelling substance in fruit in concentrated form.
- Mrs. A. is able to pour and paraffin about 5 pounds (10 glasses) of jam from her 2 pounds of fruit. She gets sure results because she follows the CERTO recipe EXACTLY.
- Mrs. A's 10 glasses of jam were made in just 15 minutes.

THE OLD WAY

- Mrs. B. makes jam the old-fashioned, long-boil way. She, too, is ready to start her jam making at 9 o'clock.
- Mrs. B. starts off with the same amount of prepared fruit in her saucepan.
- Mrs. B. uses the old-fashioned long-boil recipe which calls for "one pound of sugar to every pound of fruit". So she weighs out 2 pounds of sugar and adds it to her prepared fruit.
- Mrs. B. boils the mixture about 30 minutes before the jam thickens to the desired consistency. This evaporates about ½ the weight of the fruit, darkens the color and carries off much of the natural fresh-fruit flavor in steam.
- Mrs. B. pours and paraffins about 3 pounds (6 glasses) of jam from the same amount of fruit. Until it is finished she cannot tell for sure how well her jam will turn out.
- Mrs. B. took 45 minutes to make her 6 glasses of jam.

Certo gave Mrs. A. sure results... much more jam... saved time, work and money

New Village Planned For Senior Citizens

Development Awaits Saanich Council Approval of Zoning, Says Official

The small group of citizens which financed the building of the $150,000 "Twilight Homes," on Cedar Hill and Cedar Hill Crossroads, is planning to build more low-rent modern dwellings for aged Victorians, it was learned today.

The homes will be built as soon as Saanich Council approves the zoning of property on Cedar Hill Crossroads situated near the Twilight Homes site, P. H. B. Dawson, a director of the Twilight Homes Ltd., said today.

Saanich Council is expected to give its decision tonight.

The new village will consist of four dwellings, consisting of four separate apartments in each one. Cost of the project will amount to over $60,000.

The apartments will house a total of 16 individuals.

"We have found that there is a greater demand for low-rent houses for aged single persons than couples," said Mr. Dawson. "The demand comes mostly from single women."

GOOD LANDSCAPING
"He said the apartments would be electrically heated, and the village landscaped. "We insist on good landscaping," said Mr. Dawson.

The public will not be asked to subscribe towards this project as the homes are being financed by a few philanthropists. The project will be completed this fall if construction gets under way this month.

The Twilight Homes project will be built on a site of 20 buildings, housing 34 couples and also individuals.

Directors of the projects are Canon F. Pike, Col. H. F. Webber, Dr. Laura Holland and Mr. Dawson.

$1 Million Cotton Theft In Ontario

CORNWALL, Ont. (RUP)—Seven men have been arrested and accused of stealing or receiving bolts of cotton valued at $1,000,000, Police Chief Allan Clarke disclosed today.

The thefts were reported by Canadian Cottons, Ltd., whose employees said the bolts were stolen from the company's warehouse over the past 12 to 15 years under the name of Harry Segal.

Harry Segal, 68, a clothing manufacturer here, was accused of receiving the stolen cotton. He was arraigned in court Monday and released on $4,000 bail after pleading innocent.

Six employees of Canadian Cottons also were arraigned on charges of theft and receiving. The arrests followed three weeks' "underground" work by detectives. They had worked their way into a ring of cotton thieves by posing as receivers.

Wrong-Way Routes Bring Collisions

Two motorists involved in violent crashes last week in Esquimalt were fined $75 each and had their licenses suspended by Magistrate H. C. Hall in the municipal police court Monday afternoon.

Pleading guilty to careless driving charges were Albert Williams, Victoria, mail truck driver, and Walter George of the Songhees Indian Reserve.

Court was told that Williams was the driver of a truck that crashed into a car on Esquimalt Road, near Dunsmuir, at 4 a.m., June 7. Seven persons were injured in the accident. Vehicle damage aggregated $2,000.

George was the driver of a car that crashed into two others on Esquimalt Road, near Joffre, at 9:45 p.m., June 12. Vehicle damage totaled $550. No one was injured.

Magistrate Hall was told that both accused were driving on the wrong side of the road when the accidents occurred.

Canadian Warships Loaded by Queen

Queen, Monday, told Admiral Roger Bidwell, flag officer of Canada's Coronation squadron, that his ships made a "splendid" contribution to the review in the sun-washed Solent off Portsmouth.

Admiral Bidwell later told reporters that the Queen had discussed with him her Canadian tour in 1951, and voiced a wish to return to Canada.

2,875 MILES UNDER WATER

British Submarine Crosses Atlantic Without Surfacing

LONDON (Reuters) — The first British submarine ever to cross the Atlantic without surfacing blew its tanks, and popped above water in the English Channel Monday after a 2,875-mile voyage from Bermuda.

"Snort" (snorkel) breathing apparatus made the underwater trip possible for the 1,600-ton Andrew. She was built in the final days of the Second World War when the Nazi navy was pioneering "snorkel" developments for its U-boats.

Most modern navies, including the Soviet submarine fleet, now employ the device which sucks in air and blows out exhaust fumes from below the ocean's surface.

On June 2 the crew "spliced the mainbrace" and toasted the health of the Queen as she was crowned. A double tot of grog was issued all around.

The Andrew surfaced before dawn off Britain's southwest coast and headed for the Royal naval review at Portsmouth 50 miles to the east. Time for the Atlantic crossing was not announced, but the admiralty said the sub arrived "well ahead of schedule."

"It was a trip carried out for normal experiments and to test the snort apparatus," the admiralty announced. "The submarine carried normal supplies and any special rations to keep them going."

The Andrew's skipper, said the submarine had behaved well in rough seas.

Speaking over a ship-to-ship telephone, he added: "And I am pleased, of course, with my crew—temper sometimes get frayed, but not this time."

He said there had been some breakdowns on the way over and the sub had to settle far underwater, where it was calmer, to make repairs. Once

UN-FROZEN FOODS

WAY UP in Alaska, within the Arctic Circle, one 70-year-old gardener has found how to get his full quota of home-grown vegetable vitamins. He works gardening wonders by "trapping" the brief summer sun with reflecting aluminum foil barriers, set up behind his vegetables.

This Arctic application takes a leaf out of the book of modern builders and others who make use of aluminum's remarkable reflecting and insulating properties. Demand for Canadian aluminum in foil, sheet, rod, tube and other forms today totals one billion pounds a year. When Alcan completes its present expansion programs, supply will be further increased. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

they went down for eight hours to fix some diesel engine auxiliary equipment. This later broke down and they had to travel on one engine for 2½ days, but finally repaired it before making port.

Another time the main periscope went out of action, but they were able to fix that, too, while still submerged.

"On two occasions we had to make sudden deep dives to avoid collisions with merchant ships. This was at night when we were about halfway across the Atlantic," he said.

For the first six days the 54 men and six officers ate fresh food. When this ran out they went on canned rations.

The Andrew has been used for "snort" experiments since September, 1951, a few months after the submarine Affray was lost with all 75 officers and men in the English Channel.

After salvage men found defects in the Affray's "snort" apparatus, the admiralty embarked on a new type which was used on the Andrew.

During the voyage, crew members tuned in on broadcasts of the Coronation, the conquest of Mount Everest and cricket results.

Since last January, the Andrew has been participating in exercises with the Royal Canadian Navy and Air Force in the North Atlantic.

1,200 Cape Breton Miners Out of Work

GLACE BAY, N.S. (BUP) — The number of unemployed in Cape Breton soared over the 4,000 mark Monday following the closing of No. 1-B colliery of the Dominion Coal Company.

About 1,200 men were laid off as Dosco went ahead with plans to put in mechanical equipment. When the mine reopens the working force will be reduced.

Another 2,800 men of all trades were idle in the area. Harold Gordon, general manager in charge of coal operations, expected the new Dosco equipment will be ready by Aug. 17. While the colliery is closed down for two months, the time will include paid holidays of two weeks for the miners.

Socred Hopeful, Percy Wright Scores Press, Questioners

The press came in for a round of criticism Monday from Social Credit candidate Percy Wright, one of three Socreds leading the poll in Victoria.

Partial quotations can be extremely misleading, Mr. Wright told a luncheon meeting of the Victoria Gyro Club.

"At one point in the campaign a headline appeared which said 'candidate admits party has no platform.' As I had just spent several minutes outlining many of the policies of my party this was rather hard to take," Mr. Wright explained. "But I'm getting used to the press now."

He pointed out that one of the qualifications of a candidate is to have a thick skin.

In the audience the young city hall clerk faced party leader Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Finance Minister Einar Gunderson, visitors at the club meeting.

He outlined the steps necessary to becoming a candidate and, running in a campaign. The first step is to be nominated," he quipped.

"Don't tell me your troubles," Premier Bennett said in a jocular aside.

To be a candidate, he said, a person must be an optimist. "An optimist," Mr. Wright snapped, "is one who does not read the Times. That's the

Child Dies From Polio In Okanagan

14 Under Treatment In Dawson City

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—First Okanagan Valley polio fatality this summer was reported Monday with the death of 11-year-old Evelyn Hutton.

The total number of cases reported to the South Okanagan health unit this year now stands at 28, the majority of cases classed as mild.

There have been 18 cases this year in Penticton, six in Oliver and four in Summerland.

DAWSON, Y.T. (CP)—Fourteen cases of polio were under treatment here Monday night, all confined to Indians and nine of them paralytic.

Dr. J. Barker, local medical health officer, said the first death in the Yukon Territory occurred June 9, when Arthur Olsen, an adult, died at Whitehorse. Olsen was flown from Dawson to Whitehorse for iron lung treatment.

IMMIGRANT KILLED

MERRITT, B.C. (CP)—A 19-year-old immigrant was killed at Bow Island, 38 miles southwest of here Monday afternoon.

Vanderham was employed by the Griffin Construction Co. of Calgary, working on sewer installation at Bow Island.

8.5 Million Federal Voters Must Be Listed by Enumerators

OTTAWA (CP)—It's just 55 days to the federal election, but right now Canada really has no voters.

The huge list of those who can cast ballots on August 10 is expected to be an all-time high of 8,500,000 or more—will be made up between now and election day.

For each general election, the previous list is scrapped and a new one is put together.

This time, there will be about 50,000 enumerators—those who do the basic job of assembling the rolls of names in the 265 ridings across the country. They begin work June 22, 49 days before election.

The enumeration will take six days. In the urban ridings, teams of two operate in each polling division. One is named by the candidate, polling the highest vote in the last election in the riding; the other by the opposing candidate with the highest vote. They visit each house together to get the names of all electors living in it.

In the rural ridings, one enumerator does the job in each polling division. He does not necessarily make a door-to-door canvass.

By July 18, lists of electors in each urban polling division must be mailed to each dwelling. Also, the lists are posted in public places.

Revision of the lists will begin July 20. At the revision, those missed in the enumeration have a chance to get their names on the lists; persons may challenge names already on the lists, and names and addresses may be corrected.

RCMP Constable Snatches Three Boys From River

MERRITT, B.C. (CP)—An RCMP constable braved swift currents and jagged rocks in a three-hour fight Sunday night to snatch three boys from a perilous perch in the icy Coldwater River.

Michael McGorin, 11, Walter Gamble, 12, and Victor York, 11, were tumbled into the white water when their small boat overturned. Nearly overcome by the cold and currents, they clung to a tiny mid-river island.

Hearing of their plight, Const. Robert Miles lowered himself downriver on a 100-foot rope fastened to shore well above the island. Once on the island, he fastened the rope to a stump and swam to the opposite shore, where a boat was tied to the line and the boys brought to safety.

School Board Seeks Overcrowding Cure

Council Authority Sought to Use Abandoned Old Oak Bay High Rooms

Drastic steps to meet an acute shortage of school accommodation here next September were taken Monday night by Greater Victoria School Board.

Trustees acted on recommendation of J. F. K. English, senior municipal schools inspector, who reported rapid growth in school population following completion of primary grade registration figures.

Headed the list of changes to meet the increase is repossession of old Oak Bay high school on Oak Bay Avenue for use as an elementary school. Oak Bay council's permission must be obtained.

Acute overcrowding is expected chiefly at Gordon Head, Oaklands, Willows and Bank Street schools.

Four additional rooms will become available with repossession of old Oak Bay High.

They will house 60 additional pupils expected at Willows and Bank Street, and enable school authorities to move pupils around from other crowded classrooms.

SHIFT SYSTEM
If the board is unable to get permission from Oak Bay council to use the school, Oaklands auditorium or instituting the shift system indefinitely, Mr. English reported.

Equipment for five rooms to take care of the emergencies was approved by the board.

All moves are designed to ease the situation until implementation of the board's second school building program.

A $3,400,000 elementary school expansion program will be voted on by the electorate in December.

TRANSPORT FOR 40
Transporting of 40 pupils from Gordon Head to Frank Hobbs School, where a vacant room is available, will "greatly improve" distribution of pupils throughout the grades in both schools, Mr. English stated.

An alternative was to hire and renovate a hall about half a mile from Gordon Head School.

Registration of Grade 1 pupils at Bank Street is filled up and a number of pupils will have to be diverted to Willows, Oaklands and Margaret Jenkins Schools.

Saanich Workers Reject Offer as Strike Continues
Strike of Saanich municipal employees moved into its 19th day today.

A meeting Monday night members of Saanich Municipal Employees' Association voted in favor of rejecting the last wage offer made by the municipal council. It included a seven-cent hourly wage for laborers, a similar percentage raise for others who work by the hour, and a 3 per cent increase for those paid by the month.

Reeve Joseph Casey had no comment to make today on the rejection.

During the four-hour meeting office employees indicated they would accept the 3 per cent increase offered, but made no strong objection to continuing the strike. It started May 28.

Association officials said rumors that some employees were ready to cross the picket line today were unfounded.

About 135 of the total association membership of 180 attended the meeting.

Auxiliary Police Force at Colwood
Thirty men were sworn in as auxiliary policemen to work with the RCMP of the Colwood detachment at a meeting at Colwood police headquarters Monday.

They will work with the police in civil defense and other emergencies which might arise. Their training will include many phases of both police work and civil defense. Emphasis will be placed on traffic control.

Decision was to hold meetings every first and third Monday of each month.

The emergency force was addressed by Roger Peachey, former commissioner of the old B.C. police force and chief of auxiliary police for CD; Barrie Gault, chief warden of the Greater Victoria target area; Harry Harris, "A" district controller; Robert Abbott, chief instructor, and S-Sgt. D. G. Ashby, of RCMP headquarters in Victoria.

Police said a call for more recruits will go out should the need arise.

His skull fractured when struck by a lead weight at Fisherman's Wharf, Erie Street, Monday, Roland Prince, 25, of Box 2414, RR 5, Victoria, was reported in fair condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital today.

The accident occurred at 4 p.m. when a winch was snapped and a counterweight hit him. Prince fell about 10 feet onto the deck of a ship on which he was working.

Mayor Seeks Fireboat for City Harbor

Defense Control Advises Action

Mayor Harrison said today he is investigating the possibility of obtaining a fireboat for protection of Victoria's harbor.

He referred to the danger the port of Vancouver experienced overnight when an oil tanker fire threatened the waterfront, and revealed:

"Greater Victoria Civil Defense Control Board has asked me to look into possibility of a fireboat for Victoria."

Apart from civil defense emergencies, the mayor said a fireboat was required for every harbor situation.

Mayor Harrison said he was looking into the possibility of acquiring an old whaling ship, "Green," owned by Max Lohr-runner, which was offered to the federal government several months ago.

He thought that if a boat was obtained for the civil defense board, some arrangement could be made by the city to have it available for harbor protection at all times.

Tories to Contest All B.C. Ridings

Pearkes Reveals

Progressive Conservatives will contest all 22 federal ridings in British Columbia, Tory president Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Nanaimo, said today.

Gen. Pearkes said despite his party's severe defeat in the June 9 provincial election he doesn't feel the CCF or Socialists can be considered national parties which could oust the federal Liberals.

"Federal by-elections have proven," he said, "that the Conservatives are the only party strong enough to oppose the Liberals."

"The majority of people feel they have been in power too long, and that a change is needed to rid the country of waste and extravagance."

Federal Campaign May See Premier Outside Province

Other parts of Canada may see and hear B.C.'s high-riding Premier W. A. C. Bennett in the federal election campaign.

The premier today dropped a hint to political reporters that he may campaign outside the province in the coming federal vote.

Asked if he will hit the hustings "elsewhere than B.C.," the premier replied:

"I may take a look elsewhere... keep an eye on developments."

Test Drills Start

A 16-man drilling crew has started test borings on the proposed site of the Butte Lake dam.

The testing is expected to take three months. The tests are necessary to make sure the rock formation is suitable for damming purposes.

In the meantime, a 15-man B.C. Power Commission crew is surveying the location for a road from the damsite to Upper Campbell Lake.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—When and in what country was the first blue baby operation performed?—S.M.

A.—By Dr. Blaylock and Dr. Helen Tausig in Baltimore, Md., in May, 1945.

Q.—Are all B.C. old age pensioners required to pay the B.C. Hospital Insurance?—L.P.

A.—Those receiving $40 (federal) a month pay the insurance premium. Those receiving the $40 and the provincial $10 a month cost of living bonus, who must pass a means test, do not pay, the government assuming the responsibility of paying the premium and any hospital bills that arise. If the pensioner comes into independent income which increases the funds he receives above $50, a readjustment becomes necessary which may cancel the exemption from the premium.

Islanders Wage Roads Battle

Associated Chambers Complain V.I. Mileage Far Below Average

By ED McLEAN, Times Business Editor

A new deal for Vancouver Island's road system is the feature topic at the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island annual meeting at Nanaimo today and Wednesday.

The more than 100 delegates from 24 V.I. chambers started talking about roads this afternoon when the road committee's annual report was presented by vice-chairman Fred W. Hawes. He substituted for Major H. Cuthbert Holmes, the chairman, who is in hospital.

Roads again will be the subject Wednesday forenoon when a "road extensions" resolution by Port Renfrew Chamber of Commerce is considered.

Port Renfrew argues that "if it is possible for the government to build 62 miles of road in the Babine River district for the benefit of B.C.'s salmon industry, it should be possible to make surveys and start building roads which will service the people who make possible B.C.'s great forest industries as well as the coast commercial fishermen."

The resolution "demands immediate attention by the government" to the Vancouver Island roadwork program presented to Works Minister Gagliardi last January 27 by an ACCVI delegation led by president Robert MacWhinney.

72 Miles of New Island Roads Asked

Prepared by ACCVI's road class standards of Island Highways, the brief requested 72 miles of new road on the island, reconstructing of 30 miles of Island Highway, widening and graveling of another 35 miles, and surveys totalling 155 miles where no provincial roads now exist.

Grants accompanying the ACCVI request show that in 1951 Vancouver Islanders constituted 18.5 per cent of B.C.'s population, held 26.7 per cent of the province's licenses, and paid 19 per cent of the gas tax. Yet Vancouver Island had only 3.7 per cent of the mileage of provincial roads then existing.

Specifically, the delegation requested an immediate start on the "urgently needed" Alberni-Tofino road, improving to first-class standards of Island Highway, widening and improving of Campbell River-Sayward sector, and surveying for a possible ultimate extension of Island Highway to Coal Harbour.

Two "circle road" projects also were recommended. One entails an extension westward from Jordan River to Port Renfrew and then inland to connect with Island Highway either via Cowichan Lake or Shalvian Lake. The other envisioned extension of the Beaver Creek road to connect with Port Alberni and Courtenay.

Works Minister Gagliardi was told that "without jeopardizing completion of main highways, secondary roads should be substantially improved on a regular yearly basis."

Lack of Loop Brings Disappointment

The Port Renfrew resolution, dated May 14, "notes with disappointment and regret that so little has been done to implement the Island loop and extension road program... and demands it be given immediate attention by the government."

Also on the agenda of ACCVI meeting Wednesday forenoon is a Port Alberni resolution urging Vancouver Island to send a bigger representation to B.C. Highways and Tourist Travel Conference sponsored annually by Vancouver Board of Trade.

Other resolutions call for: 1. Implementing of legislative Butte Lake committee recommendation that Forbidden Plateau and adjoining suitable areas should be included in Strathcona Park.

2. Withholding from "any forest management license" Esowista Peninsula, Tofino Inlet, and Vargan Island lands suitable for agriculture.

3. Asking for early action on the Vesuvius-Crofton ferry service. (Works Minister Gagliardi on Monday again said B.C. government is prepared to pay a $12,000 subsidy for this service as soon as ferry wharves are built by the federal authority.)

4. Urging action to make NHA home-building loans available in outlying communities and smaller urban centres.

Nanaimo Royal Bank manager Robert MacWhinney presides at the convention today and Wednesday forenoon. Fred W. Hawes, Victoria, is vice-president and George I. Warren, Victoria, secretary-treasurer.

Other Victoria chamber representatives are: president George H. Wheaton; vice-president Stuart Keate, Times publisher, who will speak at tonight's dinner in Tidewater Grill and Supper Club on Departure Bay Road, Nanaimo; immediate past president T. G. Denny; tourist trade group chairman G. Conway Parrott; and E. W. Arnott. Mr. Arnott also will represent B.C. Chamber of Commerce in which he is vice-president.

Navy Field Guns To Fire Salute At Ceremonial

As the flag descends the tall pole at the Parliament Buildings tonight it will start one of the most impressive sunset ceremonies so far staged by the armed forces in the current series here.

It will be the Navy's turn tonight, Wednesday and Thursday, too.

The big change from previous displays will be the presence of three field pieces which will fire parting salutes to the day.

The band of HMCS Naden also will be in attendance and there will be the usual armed color guard.

Seven Days Jail Without Option Driver's Penalty

William Leonard Corlette, Langford, was sentenced to seven days in jail on two driving charges by Magistrate A. I. Thomas in RCMP court at Colwood, police reported today.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while his license was under suspension and was found guilty of careless driving. Magistrate Thomas imposed seven-day jail terms on both charges without option of fines, the sentences to run concurrently.

Court was told that Corlette was in a May 28 three-car accident in the Colwood area in which damage was extensive. Magistrate Thomas told accused he was being lenient; "but future cases of this nature I am going to deal with more severely."

Socialism Can Quench Progress, Says Grauer

BCE President Sees Nationalism Twin Threat to New Achievement

Doctrinaire Socialism and economic nationalism pose grave threats to the continued high level of economic activity in this province, B.C. Electric Company president A. E. Grauer warned today.

Addressing Washington State bankers' convention in Empress Hotel, Mr. Grauer said only "bungling by the human elements" could keep B.C.'s record-breaking post war business activity from reaching new heights.

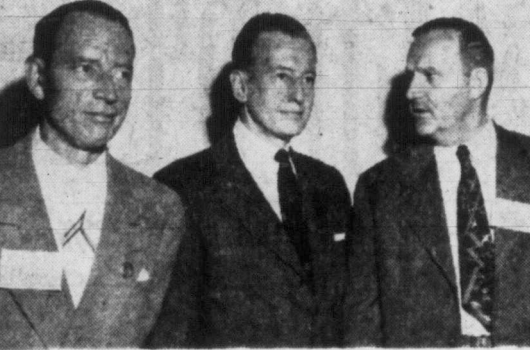

One such "human bungling" would be foisting of tired and outmoded doctrinaire socialism on the province.

Mr. Grauer also fears such "economic nationalism" arguments as are being used before Federal Power Commission by American interests opposed to Westcoast Transmission's proposed Peace River-B.C.-Washington gas pipeline.

These arguments, pinpointed in a speech at New York by Seattle Gas Company's president "constitute as bare an argument for economic nationalism as has been seen in modern times and, if accepted, would represent a revolutionary change in U.S. trade and investment policy in the most reactionary sense."

Apart from these factors Mr. Grauer is optimistic B.C. will reach new economic heights that will dwarf the massive accomplishments in the post war years.

U.S. Grows Restive Under Tax Burdens; Banker Would Stop Economic Tinkering

A major role in disseminating information on money management, and the way monetary policy affects the welfare of the American people, is waiting to be filled by the nation's bankers, according to the No. 1 banker of the United States.

"There is a general restiveness and a growing concern among our citizens that high cost of government, war, controls, and oppressive taxation are taking too great a toll of our resources and incentive," W. Harold Brenton, president of the American Bankers' Association, said today at the concluding session of the Washington Bankers' Association two-day convention at the Empress Hotel.

"There was never a more logical time than now for our people to reappraise the situation and awaken to what is responsible for this state of affairs in our economic outlook," he said.

He said there is a growing group of politico-economists that manipulates, controls and disbursts income and taxes of science and production.

TWO PHILOSOPHIES
There are two philosophies in the group, he said; one advocates keeping values on a gradual but perpetually rising plane by administrative controls and mild inflationary measures. The other, he said, favors competitive markets, individual decisions and a sound dollar kept stable by the action of supply and demand.

Mr. Brenton spoke in favor of a balanced international exchange of goods, with lower trade barriers to allow entry of foreign goods to the American market.

"We should not base a broad policy on isolated situations," he said.

RESERVES NEEDED
He also suggested banks should be permitted an adequate reserve for losses and depression periods, "not as a tax saving device," but as a useful tool to iron out the peaks and valleys in the American economy. It would be a "deterioration reserve," he said, similar to a businessman's depreciation reserve for material replacement.

Mr. Brenton was critical of government money lending as being in direct competition with private enterprise.

"If credit needs are not met by private enterprise, then it becomes the duty of the government to step in, in the public interest, but only in time of emergency," he said.

"The Reconstruction Finance Corporation advanced credit," he said. "Trouble arose because its areas were not defined, and it was not allowed to expire after it had served its purpose."

A DOCTORATE from the Sorbonne in Paris has been awarded Miss Gwladys V. Downes, assistant professor of French at Victoria College. (Photo by Robert Fort)

Victoria Woman Wins Doctorate From Sorbonne

Miss Gwladys V. Downes, assistant professor of French at Victoria College, has been awarded a doctorate at the Sorbonne in Paris, according to

Dr. Downes, who had previously spent three years of post-graduate study in France, left Victoria in May to complete her degree by presenting a thesis on the poet, Paul Valery.

She was aided in her research and travel during the current year by a grant from the Canadian Federation of University Women.

Dr. Downes also received one of the French government's scholastic grants given to enable a university lecturer in French language and literature to spend three months in further study in France.

She had, in the course of her university studies in Vancouver, Toronto and Paris, won other scholarships offered by these two agencies, as well as several other awards for excellence in language studies.

Dr. Downes attended Oak Bay High School, of which her father was principal, and Victoria College before graduating with first class honors in French from UBC. She has her MA from UBC also. Prior to her appointment at the college in 1951 she lectured at UBC and Toronto.

Dr. Downes saw the Coronation in London and then moved to Cambridge to attend choral service in King's College Chapel and on to Ely Cathedral for an evensong for the Coronation.

Before returning to Victoria in September, Dr. Downes plans to travel in France and in England. She will spend a few days at the Edinburgh Festival.

TINY TADS HAVE DAY

Festival Didn't Forget The Junior Side of Parade

By KITTY DIXON

The weatherman had predicted showers for the Junior Rose Festival Parade on Saturday morning in Portland, but old King Sol didn't let the youngsters down! Yes, the sun smiled brightly on the miniature version of the Grand Floral Parade. It was strictly children's day, and what a day!

Hundreds of cowboys, Indians, gypsies and clowns strutted proudly along the route to Grant Bowl, where the parade ended. Floral floats by the dozens were built on large wagons and pulled by members of such organizations as the boy scouts.

There were school bands, drill teams and majorettes high-stepping it just like their high school idols.

Like the big parade, the theme was "Holidays in Flowers." As the Hollywood District "Rose Festival Holiday" float carried off top honors on Friday, it seemed only natural that a small-size replica of it should do the same on Saturday.

One little fellow had made his every day wagon into an old-time covered wagon and had painted "Oregon or Bust" across the canvas. His gingham-clad "gal friend," with poke-bonnet, sat up front and a cage of young chicks was tied to the back to add to the effect.

I must mention in the past section of the parade, for it drew many laughs and exclamations of "Aw-ew!" and "Isn't he cute?" from the spectators. Tots carrying, wheeling and leading their dogs, cats, chickens, rabbits and goats were proud as punch of their "very own" animals. One little girl was wheeling a goose in her doll's buggy, and the goose seemed to think it was great fun, for it sat there placidly eying the chuckling crowd.

Acrobats, folk dancers, novelty performers and our drill team entertained the crowds at Grant Bowl until the parade arrived.

Saturday afternoon was free and many of us went sight-seeing. Multnomah Falls, the Grotto and Vista House were the highlights of our drive along the scenic highway. As it was a warm, sultry afternoon some of our girls went swimming at Jantzen Beach.

"Cap" Foster was thrilled when he received a reel of colored moving picture film, taken of the drill team's last visit to Portland, sent to him by Mrs. Helen Whitmore.

Saturday night we decided to stay in the hotel and rest, but 20 of us were in an improvised dormitory, so you can imagine what that meant! When a group of girls with as much to discuss as we had got together in a dorm with a radio, a tremendous bowl of apples, oranges and bananas and suitcases full of newly-bought summer clothes... it's ridiculous to even think of sleep!

When it came time to get up in the morning and prepare for the six-hour drive ahead of us we looked forward only to curling up in the back seat of the car and getting some more "shut-eye." We arrived in Victoria on Sunday evening... tired, happy, and prepared to return to normal living.

NEW FASHIONS ON THE HIGHWAY

The new Chrysler models are completely new in body styling. Longer, lower lines greatly enhance their beauty. Curved one-piece windshields improve the symmetry of design and afford wide angle visibility. Side windows are wider, giving a lighter, more distinguished appearance to the top, and a panoramic view for the back-seat passengers. Rear fenders look longer, sweeping back in a straight, clean line. The deck is longer and wider. And there is 44% more cubic feet of space in the trunk. Interiors, too, are completely redesigned and are even more luxurious and comfortable than ever. Seats are cushioned with soft foam rubber, and fabrics feature many beautiful two-tone color treatments.

Leaving for Eastern Canada

Mrs. Harland Knowles, who has spent the past six years in Victoria with her mother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. H. Mattland Young, Humber Road, the Uplands, will leave Friday by motor for Montreal where she will attend the wedding of her nephew, Mr. Brock Young, and Miss Colleen Minty Dwyer on June 27. Mrs. Knowles will spend two months holidaying at Niagara-on-Lake, at Cohasset, Mass., with her son and his family and on the lower St. Lawrence, before returning to Montreal in September to make her future home. She is being extensively entertained by friends here prior to her departure.

Inez Nuttall Wears Satin For Wedding at St. John's

A bridal gown of white satin and French lace, styled with princess lines and hoop skirt was worn by Inez Virginia Nuttall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nuttall, 838 Old Esquimalt Road, when she exchanged vows with Dennis George Ridley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ridley, Anchorage Avenue, Colwood, Saturday evening. Her fingertip veil was held in place with a white satin crown embroidered with seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Canon George Biddle officiated at the ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Mary Matheson, matron of honor for her sister, wore a gown of turquoise net over tulle. Her bouquet was pink carnations and she wore matching flowers in her hair. Bridesmaids, Miss Valerie Jeanes and Miss Margaret Bell were dressed identically in mauve tulle with matching lace yokes. They wore white mitts, summer flowers in their hair and carried yellow carnations. Little Donna and live at Colwood.

Upon returning the couple will live at Colwood.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Earl Price, and was traditionally gowned in white, her gown being of satin with net overlay, the strapless bodice being worn with a jacket of white lace featuring pearl studded collar and lily point sleeves. Her veil of embroidered net was held by a coronet encrusted with beads and seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Gracie Fields Show Nets 10%

Disappointed with returns from a one-night Gracie Fields show at the arena June 8, Victoria Y. Men's Club, do not feel they can sponsor the artist's appearance here again.

The club will net only $500 to $600 out of a total gate of approximately $5,500, V. J. Christison, secretary, said Monday night.

The club contracted to pay a guaranteed $2,500 for the Fields' show. In addition there was a high advertising aggregate and $750 rental for the arena. The club cleared almost $1,000 on Miss Fields' last visit in 1950.

Money is used for Thunderbird Camp at Glinz Lake and other youth projects.

TWO for the SHOW
 By PHIL LEE
 AA (YUCKY CHASE) A (Don't Miss)
 BB (WORTHWHILE) (B For Rainy Days)
 CC (You put in time)

(A) "MAN IN THE DARK" (Capitol): Now we're getting somewhere. This is the best 3-D yet.

Without the first tremendous surprise that heralded the pioneer 3-D film, "Bwana Devil," and without the buildup by the Hollywood presshounds surrounding "House of Wax," this Columbia chore comes to town with scarcely a pre-show blurb to steal the works to date.

As much as I enjoyed "Bwana Devil" and "House of Wax," the enjoyment stemmed from the new medium more than from the story screened. "Devil" was a sorry story meant only to show off 3-D, while, as I stated previously in this column, I would have walked out of "Wax" if it hadn't been in 3-D.

"Man in the Dark" is another matter entirely. The story—a cops-and-robbers thriller—is interesting throughout and the acting, of its kind, excellent.

The story in brief: Edmond O'Brien is a thug who wins his parole by allowing a doctor to perform an operation on his brain. The operation is a success, but he loses his memory. No sooner is he convalescing, however, than old hospital grounds and give him the expected going-over to try to locate O'Brien.

With his old gal Peg (Audrey Totter) O'Brien suddenly remembers parts and snatches of his old life and where he left the boodle. The resulting three-way chase by the police, the thugs and Ed and Peg is tremendously realistic and exciting. It takes place in an amusement park and what with a roller-coaster ride in the dark and many other incidents that I won't mention, it turns "Man in the Dark" into something out of the ordinary from a purely technical success and is a bang-up thriller as well.

I still don't like having to wear glasses at my shows. But as long as the calibre of 3-D movies keeps up the way it apparently is, I'm afraid I'll just have to get used to them.

However, before long we may have a chance to look at Cinemascope. This will give us 3-D and without the polaroid glasses.

But 3-D's the thing. Let's admit it. It is what the movies have needed for a long time and it is here to stay.

1903-1953 FIFTY YEARS FORWARD

WITH PRIDE IN A GREAT TRADITION

FORD BUILDS FOR CANADA'S TOMORROW

Today we of Ford of Canada join other companies bearing the same proud name in 25 countries around the world in saluting the Fiftieth Anniversary of our parent firm, Ford Motor Company in the United States. We take pride in the fact that we enter our Fiftieth Year in Canada in August.

Henry Ford was a man of vision and initiative. He wanted to build "a motor car for the multitude—so simple anyone could drive it—so rugged it would stand up under the roughest use." He wanted to build such cars so efficiently and in such numbers that any family with a modest income could afford to own one.

The little group of Canadian business men who undertook in 1904 to build the Ford car in Canada were men of vision and initiative, too. These pioneers faced ridicule and indifference, but their courage and determination carried their organization through to success.

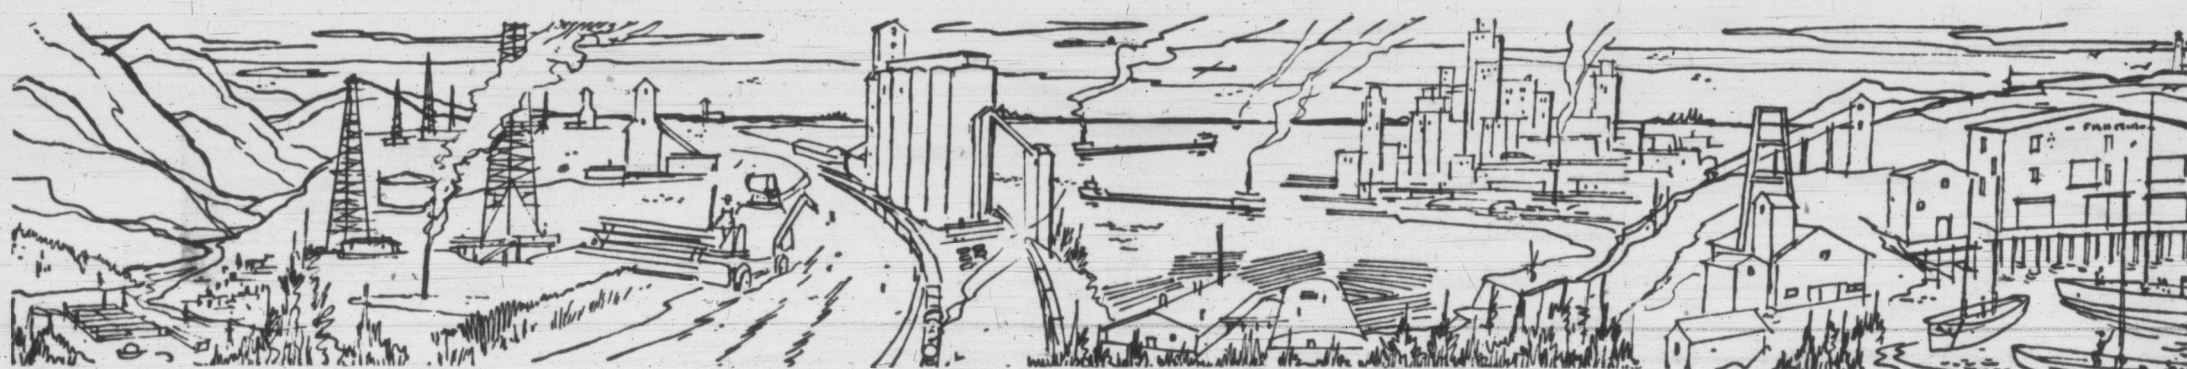

And so Ford of Canada expanded and grew because it continued to look into the future, and because it made a product which brought pleasure to millions; which freed the farmer from isolation; which revolutionized transportation and industry, and brought better working and living conditions to Canadians.

Today, as we look back over the past, we gain inspiration to look forward to the future. We see before us constantly increasing opportunity to serve our country and its people in the era of unprecedented progress and prosperity which lies before us. We accept today, as we have accepted in the past, the challenge to meet the automotive needs of a nation that is going places—the challenge to build the best cars and trucks we know how to produce, and to ensure the complete satisfaction of our customers.

Our $65,000,000 program to enlarge and improve our productive facilities already is more than half completed, and from coast to coast our 1,100 alert and progressive dealers are engaged in undertakings designed to provide even better service for their customers. Our company and our dealers are moving forward with a forward-moving Canada. With complete faith in the future of our great country, we build for Canada's tomorrow.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

By EDWIN JORDAN, MD

Wash Two or Three Times After Poison Ivy Contact

A correspondent writes that she has been afflicted with poison ivy at least once a year ever since she has been on this continent, for the past 15 years. I might say that being afflicted with poison ivy is not restricted to those who have come from elsewhere; many native-born, who frequently should know better, get into the same trouble.

Poison ivy grows only in North America. It is entirely absent from other parts of the world. There is no poison ivy season, as the stalk is dangerous in winter even when the leaves are not growing. In summer, however, more people are out of doors and hence more likely to be exposed to this poisonous skin irritant.

Thousands of people develop a blistering irritation of the skin every year, either through pure carelessness or because they do not know enough to recognize poison ivy when they see it. It has been estimated that 350,000 people get into trouble with poison ivy each year, and that the total time lost is in the neighborhood of 600,000 days.

Everyone should learn to recognize the three-pointed leaves of poison ivy, since much of the trouble comes from failure to know them. Some people are more sensitive to this poisoning of the skin than others, but any one may fall a victim.

I have heard people boast that they never get poison ivy. Sooner or later, if they continue to expose themselves they usually regret this boast. It is well known that people who have seemed safe for a great many years may come down when they least expect it.

On the other hand, a few people are extremely sensitive to poison ivy and can develop symptoms even if they stand in the smoke from a fire in which poison ivy is being burned. This is because the smoke particles carry tiny droplets of the oil from poison ivy.

NO QUICK CURE

There is no sure, quick cure for ivy poisoning. Several preparations which can be put on the skin are helpful. The best policy to follow is to avoid the ivy plants.

If a person should come in contact with a plant and know it, thorough washing with soap and water two or three times should be carried out, followed by rinsing carefully after each wash. Many cases are serious enough to require a doctor's care.

NEWS BRIEFS

Due to the severe shortage of drugs, a B.C. pharmacist's convention at Qualicum Beach this week will not get heavy local attendance. Officials of group here said Monday that, due to difficulties that might be imposed on customers if druggists attended from smaller stores, only a token force will attend.

Registration of children wishing to take part in the Oak Bay summer playground program will be from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Thursday at Willows School, and at the same time Friday at Monterey School. The season will start July 2, and run to July 31 at Willows, Windsor and Lafayette Parks, and at a new junior park near the fire hall.

William G. Bardeck, no fixed address, was given a "floater" by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court Monday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawfully begging on the city streets.

No one was hurt but about $200 damage was done to cars driven by William Gushowaty, 3114 Albina, and George R. Richmond, 5506 Oldfield Road, when they collided at Ardster and Tennyson at 6:10 p.m. Sunday. Saanich police reported.

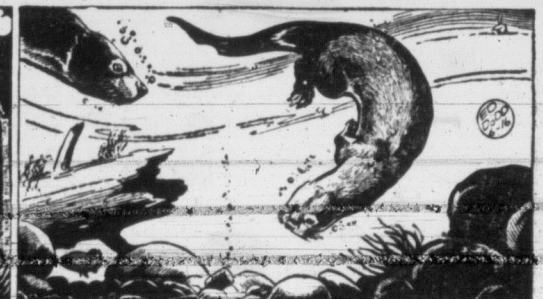

The price of grade A eggs went up 4 cents here Monday. Grade A large are 55 cents to producer, 66 to 69 cents to the wholesaler. Grade A mediums are 53 to the producer and 64-66 at wholesale level. Other prices are unchanged.

HOME GARDEN

There is no such word as "dirt" in the gardener's language. Dirt refers to something which is unclean, certainly not to the living soil which sustains life.

To those of us who spend all our time with it, soil is the most treasured of the garden "tools." Contact with it is not shunned, and though it may stain the hands and the clothing this is not regarded as a calamity. Much good gardening time is spent on one's knees, down among the plants where many lessons may be learned. One of the earliest jobs is the thinning of vegetable rows. While doing it, one realizes the need for less waste, sowing of seed. Kneeling to hand weed around the perennials and annuals is much easier than stooping. One does a more leisurely and a more thorough job. The habits of the various plants may be studied, whether they send out side branches just above soil level or shoots emerge through the soil direct from the root stock. These things all help one to judge the needs of the individual plant.

Another advantage of the kneeling method over the stooping which is that it is possible to sit back, occasionally, on the heels for a rest. Take a good look at the sky and feel the warm sun on the face. There is nothing quite so good.

The planting of annuals from flats has just been completed at our place—several hundreds of plants in all. The work was done on the knees, and even with a rubber kneeling pad they were pretty sore by the time the last annual was tucked in. Small knobs of dry soil would collect on and beneath the kneeling pad—you can guess the result! Consequently, this week we were very pleased to receive a letter from a reader who had devised an excellent method to overcome this inconvenience. The lady uses a cardboard carton with one long side removed, and a cushion which fits the carton snugly. The carton keeps the cushion clean and the cushion protects the knees.

It sounds so comfortable that we shall try the idea just as soon as our knees are usable again.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on 'nerves'—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dadd's Kidney Pills. Dadd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.

Tanker Ravaged By Fire Aground In Burrard Inlet

Brave Captain Guides Ship Away

IOCO, B.C. (BUP)—The burned-out tanker, Argus, ravaged by fire and a series of explosions, rode in Burrard Inlet today after Capt. William Boyce guided it from the Imperial Oil refinery where it had threatened to set

JULY 1 TO BE 'FULL HOLIDAY' IN PROVINCE

Dominion Day, July 1, will be a "full holiday" for B.C. workers.

Declared a statutory holiday by the federal government, the day also has been named a holiday by the provincial government under the Factories Act and Shops Regulations Act.

This means virtually everybody gets the day off.

Jones Trial Goes to Jury Today

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Trial of 21-year-old negro boxer, Sonny Jones, in the brutal murder of Mrs. Los Angeles Smith, is expected to go to the jury late today with the defense resting on a plea of insanity.

The young fighter, whose real name is Charles Matthews, is alleged to have killed Mrs. Smith, 44, in her home March 4 because she had interfered with his love affair with pretty negress Peggy Bowen.

Mrs. Jocelyn Wallberg, who lived above Mrs. Smith, said she was tied up and raped by Jones the same morning as the slaying.

Three suicide attempts by Jones after his arrest were described by defense witnesses.

One of two psychiatrists, Dr. George A. Davidson of the Vancouver General hospital, said Jones had probably gone through a period of insanity the day of the murder.

Fashionable Ascot Crowd Grets Queen

WINDSOR, Eng. (AP)—The Queen was a bright and cheerful spot in a dull day at the opening of the Royal Ascot races, socially the smartest of the racing meetings.

The Queen, who rushed from Portsmouth, where she reviewed British and visiting warships Monday, was hailed at the Ascot race course enthusiastically by a large crowd as she drove in state to the royal enclosure.

She and the Duke of Edinburgh rode to their places in an open landau drawn by four spirited grey horses. Bands played and men raised their grey, Ascot toppers as the Royal Couple rode about four furlongs along the course to their enclosure.

The sun broke out for a moment on the Queen's arrival. She wore a feathered hat of vivid green and a dress of red and green. Over it was a coat of steel grey heavy silk.

In the landau with them were the Duke of Gloucester and the Duke of Beaufort. In

The 517-ton tramp tanker owned by the Waterhouse Union Co. blazed throughout the night after it caught fire while being loaded with thousands of gallons of high octane gas and diesel oil about 8.30 p.m.

The fire, set off by a sudden engine room explosion resulting from igniting of leaking fumes, touched off explosions but did not spread to 18,000 gallons of gasoline aboard the vessel.

Four crewmen were injured when hit by searing oil flames. They were rescued by chief engineer Walter Huska of Lulu Island, Vancouver, who later cut the tanker free from the dock with his jackknife.

It was feared the fire would reach fuel loaded aboard the Argus and blow the vessel to bits, probably touching off an uncontrollable blaze at the oil refinery here.

However, Capt. Boyce rode the blazing ship alone to a safe anchorage in shallow waters of the inlet. He then climbed overboard to a tug which had towed the tanker away from the dock where it was menacing the nearby refinery.

The vessel was lying about a quarter of a mile off the dock at 2.15 a.m. when a series of seven explosions shook windows on the shoreline and was heard for miles around. The vessel then began to list astern and apparently grounded.

This morning, the flames had petered out and the Argus was shrouded in cloud and smoke.

Officials said the fire apparently did not reach the gasoline.

The fire boats Sea Chieft and Imperial Ioco reached the scene and were forced to back away in face of the thunderous explosions that wrecked the vessel.

A carriage behind the landau were Queen Mother Elizabeth, the Princess Margaret, the Duke of Devonshire and the Marquess of Landsdowne. The Queen Mother wore lilac, and Princess Margaret's dress was of coffee colored silk. Two other carriages brought other members of the Royal Family and guests.

Usually Ascot is a fashion parade. It wasn't quite that in today's grey and blustery weather. There were pretty dresses by the tens of thousands, but mostly they were hidden by coats. Outer garments were removed between spatters of rain to reveal that predominant colors of the frocks were grey, black and white. There wasn't a trace of the wide-brimmed hats in the sun-bonnet manner which has been a distinguishing feature of summer Ascots of other years.

Plunchino, owned by James A. de Rothschild, won the Ascot Stakes by six lengths today with Sir Humphrey de Trafford's Papilio second and F. T. Williams' Nick la Rocca third.

Three of his victims were found sealed in a wall of his "murder flat" on a London dead-end street. The fourth was found buried in the back yard beneath a flowering Forsythia bush.

Christie will not be tried in the famous No. 1 court at the Central Criminal Court (Old Bailey). The court is being rebuilt and his case will be heard in a smaller one.

Sir Lionel Heald, the attorney-general, will conduct the prosecution. Derek Curtis Bennett, noted criminal lawyer, will defend Christie.

Coronation portrait of Queen Elizabeth is superimposed of photographer Cecil Beaton's background depicting St. George's Chapel at Windsor Castle. The Queen wears the imperial crown and the purple robe of state, 22 feet long, which will never be worn again.

Her white gown is embroidered with the emblem of the Commonwealth in gold, silver, pearls and silk. She carries the sceptre in her right hand and orb in left and wears the armlets (gold bracelets), representing sincerity and wisdom.

Christie Trial Starts Monday

LONDON (BUP)—John R. Christie, 39, the accused stranger of Notting Hill, will go on trial next Monday for the murder of his wife and three other women. It was announced today.

Three of his victims were found sealed in a wall of his "murder flat" on a London dead-end street. The fourth was found buried in the back yard beneath a flowering Forsythia bush.

Christie will not be tried in the famous No. 1 court at the Central Criminal Court (Old Bailey). The court is being rebuilt and his case will be heard in a smaller one.

B.C. in New Appeal to Ottawa For Aid in Solving Douk Unrest

The provincial government will send a telegram today to the federal government appealing for co-operation in solving the continuing Doukhobor unrest in the Kootenay country.

Just before entering a cabinet meeting this morning, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said the telegram was being prepared by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Bonner expected to be able to release contents of the wire this afternoon. He declined to state the general outline of the appeal.

Mr. Bonner's earlier attempt to have a meeting with federal officials in Victoria to discuss a solution was unsuccessful. Federal Justice Minister Carson vetoed the proposal when he said the provincial government must first give him concrete proposals.

"Until they accept certain ideas and principles, they can't expect concrete proposals," Mr. Bonner said. "A complete solution lies beyond provincial jurisdiction."

A non-Doukhobor citizens' committee at Appledale, B.C., telephoned Premier Bennett Monday night and asked "what has been done?" about a week of continuing Doukhobor unrest in the Sons of Freedom country.

Fifteen homes and an unoccupied Doukhobor school were put to the torch Sunday morning, after a Freedomite was sentenced late last week, to 14 years in penitentiary for arson committed last year. The committee said the premier told them that "we are watching the situation carefully" when they asked him about the possibilities of bringing in militia to protect their property.

The eight executive members of the committee then met with representatives of the reformed Sons of Freedom group, headed by Anton Kalesnikoff and John J. Perepelkin, who offered their help to the group. The citizens asked that they come forward with information leading to a conviction but the "Sons" replied they knew nothing. They told the citizens that "detective" work among them was "out" and charging one of their sect with a crime would be a grave sin.

"Catching the people and putting them in jail is not the problem," they claimed. They offered their co-operation in expediting relocation plans.

After spending nearly an hour with the Doukhobors, the citizens said "we don't see where we can work together."

Full Truce Meeting Called

Red Bombers Start Seoul
Fires, Troops Press On

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The full United Nations and Communist truce delegations will meet Wednesday after a 17-day recess, the UN command announced tonight.

The UN command asked for the meeting, the announcement said. No details were given except that it will be an executive meeting.

There was no indication whether the meeting promised a further step toward the signing of an armistice or whether some complication had arisen.

(In Washington, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had warned Monday that the present Communist offensive on the battlefield could seriously delay an armistice.)

SEOUL (AP)—Fifteen Communist planes bombed Kimpo airfield and Seoul's port of Incheon tonight touching off huge fires visible for 40 miles.

While anti-aircraft fire roared and cracked across the sky, the low-flying planes methodically dropped their bombs.

One bomb found its mark on the petroleum, oil and lubrication dump in the Incheon vicinity. Leaping flames from the fire lit Seoul, 20 miles to the east. An Allied officer said the fire "will burn for a couple of days."

The air force said it was believed the attacking planes were Russian-built PO-2 light biplanes. This is the type of plane which has been making frequent harassing raids by night.

It was the fifth raid or pass at the Seoul area by the Red air force in the last nine days.

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Chinese Communists, treading over the bodies of their own men, wrested Finger Ridge from South Korean troops today in the newest Red victory in the "Battle of the Bulge."

The Communists threw 6,000 men into the fighting after soldiers of the Eighth RoK division hurled back an attack by 1,500 Reds on outposts guarding Finger Ridge.

United Press correspondent Frederick C. Painton reported from the front that the victory is believed to have cost the Reds "tremendous casualties."

Painton said the Reds regrouped after the initial throw-back and then lunged forward in an attempt to take over a vital "pivot" point on the edge of the two-mile sag into RoK territory known as the "Bulge."

Other Red troops stabbed at RoK defenses at the critical hinge on the western end of the Bulge and a short distance to the east. On the inside of the two-mile-deep pocket one group of counter-attacking RoKs gained 200 to 300 yards.

Estimated enemy casualties for the week ended Sunday amounted to 9,200, of whom 5,700 were killed and 3,500 wounded. This total does not include complete figures for the heavy offensive which started Sunday night.

Col. John Hunt, leader of the British expedition which conquered Mount Everest, said today he made no accurate measures to check the precise height of the world's tallest peak.

The height of Mount Everest is usually given as 29,002 feet.

Rosenbergs Petition
OSSING, N.Y. (AP)—Condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg today signed a petition to President Eisenhower asking for a second time for executive clemency. They are scheduled to be executed Thursday night.

He said he would ask for the clemency because fresh figures for the final count of 124 polls gave 1860 fewer than previously reported for only 117 polls.

Latest return gave McDougall 6,241 votes to 7,552 for Social Credit George Tomlinson.

Ontario Uranium Find
Starts Staking Rush

SAULTE STE. MARIE, Ont. (BUP)—Reports of a "sensational" uranium discovery 100 miles east of here touched off one of Ontario's biggest staking scrambles today.

The rush followed reports that the Peace Uranium Co. had obtained "sensational" results from diamond drilling in Long township, centre of a thriving tourist industry off the north shore of Lake Huron.

The company refused to comment, but was expected to issue a full statement on the discovery next week.

The mining recorder's office here was swamped by miners and prospectors rushing to record more than 100 claims.

Other prospectors lined up for maps and mining licenses before heading to the area.

It was the third uranium rush in Eastern Canada in recent months. Old-time prospectors and mine company crews have been staking heavily in Quebec's Maniwaki district, where uranium finds were reported in four townships about 100 miles north of Ottawa. Earlier, prospectors and citizens in North Bay, Ont., turned the city upside down staking claims after reports of nearby uranium discoveries.

Hearings Resume On Pay Dispute Between IWA-Firms

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Conciliation board will resume hearings here today into the pay dispute between 32,000 coast woodworkers and 158 lumber and logging operators.

The three-man board will hear rebuttal arguments to briefs presented last week by the CIO International Woodworkers of America and Forest Industrial Relations, representing the operators.

The union demanded a 15-cent hourly pay hike but operators insisted on holding the line at last year's wage levels.

Pleasers Fear Rosenbergs Doomed

WASHINGTON (BUP)—A group of clergymen who interviewed President Eisenhower today in a plea for clemency for condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg said later they did not believe the President would halt their execution Thursday.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Picketing of the U.S. Consulate in Vancouver began today by members of the "Save the Rosenbergs Committee" in protest of the death sentence against the convicted atom spies, scheduled to die Thursday at Sing Sing.

At a rally Sunday night 700 people sent a telegram to President Eisenhower asking for a review of evidence against Julius and Ethel Rosenberg and that the sentence be rescinded.

Ontario Uranium Find Starts Staking Rush

SAULTE STE. MARIE, Ont., and prospectors rushing to re-ports of a "sensational" uranium discovery 100 miles east of here touched off one of Ontario's biggest staking scrambles today.

The rush followed reports that the Peace Uranium Co. had obtained "sensational" results from diamond drilling in Long township, centre of a thriving tourist industry off the north shore of Lake Huron.

The company refused to comment, but was expected to issue a full statement on the discovery next week.

The mining recorder's office here was swamped by miners' covetries.

RECOUNTS LIKELY IN 10 RIDINGS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Recounts will be requested in the next few days in at least 10 provincial ridings.

The CCF party will request recounts in all "close" ridings with CCF candidates, while Liberal candidate W. R. McDougall has announced he will ask for a recount in North Vancouver.

Other ridings expected to be included in the recount requests are: Vancouver-Burrard, Vancouver-Centre, Esquimalt, Saanich, Dewdney, Delta, Rossland, Trail, Nelson-Creston and Peace River.

The CCF said today they were placing no blame on election officials in asking for recounts.

"Our purpose is to see that second counts begin on the correct basis, in view of our experience in Burrard last year," said CCF provincial secretary Harold Thayer.

A close fight in the riding last year was finally settled in the court in favor of Social Credit candidates.

Liberal McDougall said he was asking for the recount after vote results were changed several times and finally reduced by hundreds of votes.

Returning officer Stuart Forst said today duplications in reports from polls caused the mix-up.

B.C. in New Appeal to Ottawa For Aid in Solving Douk Unrest

The provincial government will send a telegram today to the federal government appealing for co-operation in solving the continuing Doukhobor unrest in the Kootenay country.

Just before entering a cabinet meeting this morning, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said the telegram was being prepared by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Bonner expected to be able to release contents of the wire this afternoon. He declined to state the general outline of the appeal.

Mr. Bonner's earlier attempt to have a meeting with federal officials in Victoria to discuss a solution was unsuccessful. Federal Justice Minister Garson vetoed the proposal when he said the provincial government must first give him concrete proposals.

"Until they accept certain ideas and principles, they can't expect concrete proposals," Mr. Bonner said.

Hearings Resume On Pay Dispute Between IWA-Firms

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Conciliation board resumed hearings here today into the pay dispute between 32,000 coast woodworkers and 158 lumber and logging operators.

The three-man board will hear rebuttal arguments to briefs presented last week by the CIO International Woodworkers of America and Forest Industrial Relations, representing the operators.

The union demanded a 15-cent hourly pay hike but operators insisted on holding the line at last year's wage levels.

Christie Trial Starts Monday

LONDON (BUP)—John R. Christie, 59, the accused strangler of Notting Hill, will go on trial next Monday for the murder of his wife and three other women. It was announced today.

Three of his victims were found sealed in a wall of his "murder flat" on a London dead-end street. The fourth was found buried in the back yard beneath a flowering Forsythia bush.

Christie will not be tried in the famous No. 1 court at the Central Criminal Court (Old Bailey). The court is being rebuilt and his case will be heard in a smaller one.

Sir Lionel Heald, the attorney-general, will conduct the prosecution. Derek Curtis Bennett, noted criminal lawyer, will defend Christie.

Civil Defense Need As Well as Fires

Mayor Harrison said today he is investigating the possibility of obtaining a fireboat for protection of Victoria's harbor.

He referred to the danger the port of Vancouver experienced overnight when an oil tanker fire threatened the waterfront, and revealed:

"Greater Victoria Civil Defense Control Board has asked me to look into possibility of a fireboat for Victoria."

Apart from civil defense emergencies, the mayor said a fireboat was required for every-day emergencies.

"I have been apprehensive over our harbor situation," he said. "A big fire could clean out the harbor."

Mayor Harrison said he was looking into the possibility of acquiring an old whaling ship, "Green," owned by Max Lohmeyer, which was offered to the federal government several months ago.

He thought that if a boat was obtained for the civil defense board, some arrangement could be made by the city to have it available for harbor protection at all times.

Fire Ravaged Tanker Aground

IOCO, B.C. (BUP)—The burned-out tanker, Argus, ravaged by fire and a series of explosions, rode in Burrard Inlet today after Capt. William Boyce guided it from the Imperial Oil refinery here where it had threatened to set ablaze a huge store of gasoline and oil.

The 317-ton tramp tanker owned by the Waterhouse Union Co. blazed throughout the night after it caught fire while being loaded with thousands of gallons of high octane gas and diesel oil about 8.30 p.m.

The fire, set off by a sudden engine room explosion resulting from igniting of leaking fumes, touched off explosions but did not spread to 18,000 gallons of gasoline aboard the vessel.

Four crewmen were injured when hit by searing oil flames. They were rescued by chief engineer Walter Huska of Lulu Island, Vancouver, who later cut the tanker free from the dock with his jackline.

It was feared the fire would reach fuel loaded aboard the Argus and blow the vessel to bits, probably touching off an uncontrollable blaze at the oil refinery here.

However, Capt. Boyce rode the blazing ship alone to a safe anchorage in shallow waters of the inlet. He then climbed overboard to a tug which had towed the tanker away from the dock where it was menacing the nearby refinery.

The vessel was lying about a quarter of a mile off the dock at 2.15 a.m. when a series of seven explosions shook windows on the shoreline and was heard for miles around. The vessel then began to list astern and apparently grounded.

This morning, the flames had petered out and the Argus was shrouded in cloud and smoke.

Full Truce Meeting Called Wednesday

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The full United Nations and Communist truce delegations will meet Wednesday after a 17-day recess, the UN command announced tonight.

The UN command asked for the meeting, the announcement said. No details were given except that it will be an executive meeting.

There was no indication whether the meeting promised a further step toward the signing of an armistice or whether some complication had arisen.

(In Washington, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had warned Monday that the present Communist offensive on the battlefield could seriously delay an armistice.)

SEOUL (AP)—Fifteen Communist planes bombed Kimpo airfield and Seoul's port of Incheon tonight touching off huge fires visible for 40 miles.

While anti-aircraft fire roared and crackled across the sky, the low-flying planes methodically dropped their bombs.

One bomb found its mark on the petroleum, oil and lubrication dump in the Incheon vicinity. Leaping flames from the fire lit Seoul, 20 miles to the east. An Allied officer said the fire "will burn for a couple of days."

The air force said it was believed the attacking planes were Russian-built PO-2 light biplanes. This is the type of plane which has been making frequent harassing raids by night.

It was the fifth raid or pass at the Seoul area by the Red air force in the last nine days.

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Chinese Communists, treading over the bodies of their own men, wrested Finger Ridge from South Korean troops today in the newest Red victory in the "Battle of the Bulge."

The Communists threw 6,000 men into the fighting after soldiers of the Eighth RoK division hurled back an attack by 1,500 Reds on outposts guarding Finger Ridge.

United Press correspondent Frederick C. Painton reported from the front that the victory is believed to have cost the Reds "tremendous casualties."

Painton said the Reds regrouped after the initial throw-back and then lunged forward in an attempt to take over a vital "pivot" point on the edge of the Sunday night.
